

Service Agreement

Service Agreement

1 Introduction

- (a) Deutsche Bank Wealth Management is a business division of Deutsche Bank AG, a credit institution incorporated under the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany whose headquarters are at Taunusanlage 12, 60325 Frankfurt am Main, Germany. Deutsche Bank AG is licensed under the German Banking Act (Kreditwesengesetz – KWG) to conduct banking business and to provide financial services and is subject to supervision by the European Central Bank (contact address: Sonnemannstrasse 28, 60314 Frankfurt am Main)) and the Bundesanstalt für Finanzdienstleistungsaufsicht (Germany's Federal Financial Supervisory Authority) (the BaFIN) (contact address: Graurheindorfer Strasse 108, 53117 Bonn, and Marie-Curie-Strasse 24-28, 60439 Frankfurt am Main).
- (b) This Agreement (the “Service Agreement”) sets out the terms and conditions upon which the Services will be made available to you by Deutsche Bank AG, through our branches in Hong Kong and/or Singapore (the “Bank”, “we” or “us”). The Services shall only be provided with the agreement of the Bank, and nothing in this Agreement shall otherwise oblige the Bank to provide the Services in the absence of such agreement. Services that the Bank may provide to you include, without limitation, the execution of orders on your behalf, reception and transmission of your orders, portfolio management and safe custody services, Online Services and any other services (including general banking and investment services) agreed between you and the Bank from time to time. The Service Agreement forms part of your agreement with the Bank for all Accounts and the Services and you further agree to observe and be bound by the provisions of the Service Agreement and any deletions therefrom, additions or amendments thereto or replacements thereof as may from time to time be made by the Bank pursuant to the Service Agreement.
- (c) Capitalised terms used in this Service Agreement have the meanings given to them in the dedicated Definitions section or as otherwise defined in this Service Agreement.
- (d) This Service Agreement, together with the terms in the Account Application, the Services Documents and the Security Documents, will apply to and govern the relationship between you and the Bank. All Services set out in this Service Agreement, the Services Documents and the Security Documents are available to you at our discretion. Unless otherwise required by the Applicable Regulations, we need not give reasons for any refusal to open any Accounts, provide any Services or enter into any transaction, or for any termination or discontinuance of any Services, Accounts or transaction. We may require you to sign and provide additional documentation in order to open Accounts for you and provide Services to you.

Notwithstanding any other provision in the Contracts, the circumstances where we may unilaterally amend this Service Agreement, the terms in the Account Application, the Services Documents and the Security Documents (the “Right of Review”) include but are not limited to:

- (i) to comply with the obligations, requirements, arrangements, advice, or recommendations that apply to Deutsche Bank Group and that Deutsche Bank Group is expected to comply with according to any Applicable Regulations or market practices or any present or future contractual or other commitment with any Regulators;
- (ii) to facilitate the daily operation of Deutsche Bank Group's services and facilities;
- (iii) to enhance the terms and conditions under which we provide our Services;
- (iv) in connection with our business interests, to amend the fees, charges or your liabilities and obligations, and our rights;
- (v) to make disclosure in relation to our Services; and
- (vi) any other incidental circumstances relating to the foregoing circumstances and other circumstances you may from time to time agree;

provided that these circumstances as set out above are not exhaustive and may be amended pursuant to this Agreement. To the extent permissible by the Applicable Regulations, we may also decide to exercise the Right of Review over the normal course of contractual arrangement and/or as we deem necessary or appropriate in our sole discretion.

Unless otherwise required by the Applicable Regulations, we may amend this Service Agreement, the terms in the Account Application, the Services Documents and the Security Documents by giving you reasonable notice in writing. Unless otherwise required by the Applicable Regulations, thirty (30) days' notice in writing will be given for changes relating to fees, charges or your liabilities and obligations over which we have control and you may object to such amendments by giving us notice in writing within thirty (30) days of the date of our notice to you where upon any facilities or services then granted to you may be immediately terminated. The amendments will be effective from the date specified in the notices (which may be earlier than the customary notice period, if the amendments are required due to any change in Applicable Regulations), and shall be binding upon you even if you have not received the notice from us. The amendments will also apply to clients to whom we provide the "hold mail" service. You shall be deemed to have accepted the amendments if you do not object to the amendments. You also confirm that your agreement to be bound by future amendments is in consideration of us continuing this relationship with you.

- (e) The Annexes, Schedules and Supplements (where applicable) to this Service Agreement form part of this Service Agreement. In the event of any conflict, inconsistency or discrepancy between any two or more Clauses in this Service Agreement (including Clauses in any applicable Annex, Schedule or Supplement), the Clauses shall generally prevail in the following order or importance:
- (i) Clauses which are required under or have been incorporated for the purposes of compliance with Applicable Regulations;
 - (ii) Clauses which relate to any specific Service; and
 - (iii) general Clauses, provided always that in the event of any uncertainty, the Bank shall be entitled to make a determination on the applicability of Clauses, in a way which (in the Bank's sole and absolute discretion) allows it to best fulfil its legal and regulatory obligations.

- (f) All Services made available to you are subject to Applicable Regulations and the Deutsche Bank Group's internal policies and regulations. All products and services referred to in this Service Agreement, the Account Application, the Services Documents and the Security Documents are offered subject to the relevant members of the Deutsche Bank Group having the requisite licenses or registrations.

- (g) We may introduce and provide new Services from time to time, in which case you will be notified of the terms and conditions governing such new Services (if any). To the extent that the Bank agrees to provide the new Services to you, such terms and conditions will supplement and form part of this Service Agreement and will be binding on you.
- (h) Without limiting the generality of the above, we have each and every right provided in all of the Clauses in the Service Agreement and you agree that all and any of the Bank's rights, remedies and entitlements in the Service Agreement shall in any event be cumulative, and may in any event be exercised concurrently, independently, sequentially, or in any manner which the Bank deems fit.
- (i) You acknowledge that, by signing the Account Application, you will be deemed to have elected English as your preferred language in which to receive the Service Agreement, the Risk Disclosure Statement and all other agreements, notices, documents and communications to you from us. In the event that the Service Agreement, the Risk Disclosure Statement and other agreements, notices, documents and communications to you from us are translated into another language, the translated text shall be for information purposes only and shall not constitute the definitive agreement or document (or any part of it); accordingly, if there is any discrepancy, inconsistency or ambiguity between the English version and the translated text of such document, the English version shall prevail.

2 Your instructions

Mandate

- (a) You must give us instructions in accordance with the Signing Mandate (which shall remain valid until we have processed your written revocation). Instructions can be given by telephone calls (excluding SMS and instant messaging), facsimile, email (subject to the sub-Clauses under "Email instructions" below) or by any other means acceptable to us, unless we notify you otherwise. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any agreement or document concerning your Account(s) with us, any instructions and/or amendments in connection with the Signing Mandate from you to us shall only be effective from the date on which our internal procedures and processes for updating the Signing Mandate have been completed, even if you have submitted and we have received such instructions and/or amendments.

- (b) We have no obligation to verify the authenticity and validity of any instructions. We are authorised to treat as effective and binding and to effect any instructions (however given) regardless of the circumstances prevailing at the time of the instructions.
- (c) We may, but are not obliged to, require that any instructions be confirmed in a manner of our choosing and may refuse to act on any such instructions until we receive such confirmation including by email. Notwithstanding the foregoing, we may act upon the instructions before receipt of any confirmation and no discrepancy between an executed transaction and the confirmation may be held against us.
- (d) We may rely on any document (without enquiring) which appears to us to be in order. We are not responsible for the genuineness, validity, effectiveness, condition or otherwise of such document.
- (e) You acknowledge that you are aware of and have considered fully the risks inherent in the giving of oral, facsimile and email instructions and are prepared to accept all risks associated with their use.
- (f) Unless due to our negligence or wilful misconduct, you will bear all risks, and no member of the Deutsche Bank Group is or will be responsible or liable in any way whatsoever, for any Loss which you may suffer if we act, delay to act, or fail to act on any instructions. We shall not be liable in any way whatsoever when your instructions are incomprehensible, misrouted, delayed, lost, hacked or not received in full.
- (g) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any agreement or document concerning your Account(s) with us, we may, but are not obliged to, act on any oral, facsimile or email instructions given by you or any one of your Authorised Signatories or (in the case of a Joint Account) any Joint Account Holder singly.

Execution of instructions

- (h) We may, at our discretion and without liability to you, refuse to act on or accept any instructions or may act upon instructions as we see fit for any reason (even if the employee who received such communication on our behalf has stated his acceptance of the instructions). We need not give any reasons for refusing to effect or accept any instructions.

- (i) Where we act on your instructions, we act on a reasonable effort basis and in accordance with and subject to Applicable Regulations. To the extent permissible by Applicable Regulations, we are not responsible for any Loss arising out of or in connection with our acts of omission or commission while acting in a reasonable manner in executing your instructions, any delay in executing instructions, or any failure, refusal, or inability to act on or complete the execution of any instructions for whatever reason (including any failure or error of any computer or electronic system or equipment). Such instructions include but are not limited to instructions to liquidate, unwind or redeem the investment(s) of the Non-followed Transactions/Holdings.
- (j) Any instructions received after such cut-off time as determined by us may only be carried out by us on the next Business Day.
- (k) Unless you request otherwise, your orders for securities transactions will only be valid on the day on which such orders are to be executed, as determined in accordance with sub-Clause (j) above. Where securities are dealt with on more than one stock exchange or in the over-the-counter markets, we will, unless you have instructed us otherwise, select the place of execution. We may repurchase, at your expense, securities sold which were defective or not delivered in time.
- (l) We may treat as new instructions any instructions which you do not tell us are confirmations of, or changes to, your initial instructions.
- (m) An instruction given to us may not be cancelled, withdrawn or amended. We shall not be liable in any way whatsoever if we do not or are unable to stop or prevent the implementation of the initial instruction.
- (n) To the extent permissible by Applicable Regulations, we shall have no duty to assess the prudence of any instructions.
- (o) You authorise us to, and consent to our, use of recording procedures in receiving instructions, or otherwise communicating with us by way of telephone, facsimile, emails or Instant Chat. We may record or monitor telephone conversations (and other communications) between you and us for the purpose of evidencing instructions, quality control, performance of our systems and as required by Applicable Regulations. We are also authorised to record any in-person risk profile assessment of you or other discussion which may be conducted by us with you in connection with our Services to you. You agree that such recordings may be submitted as conclusive evidence of the instructions or conversations recorded to any court or tribunal in any proceedings of the content of the calls, facsimiles, emails and communications over Instant Chat and will be admissible in evidence in any proceedings. You waive any right to challenge or dispute the admissibility, reliability, accuracy or the authenticity of the contents of such recordings. The recording of such conversations and communications will be made available, where requested by any regulator, for a period of up to seven years after the telephone conversation or the electronic communication.

- (p) We are required, in the case of personal conversations with clients relating to investment services, to record in a durable medium notes of the conversation which include at least the following:
- date and time of the meeting,
 - location of the meeting,
 - identity of the attendees,
 - initiator of the meeting, and
 - relevant information about the order including the price, volume, type of order and when it shall be transmitted or executed.

The recording of such conversations will be made available, where requested by the any regulator, for a period of up to seven years after the telephone conversation or the electronic communication.

Email instructions

- (q) Any email which seems to us to be sent by you or your authorised representative(s) shall be conclusively presumed for our benefit to be from you or your authorised representative(s) and you or your authorised representative(s) shall be fully responsible for the same. Our determination of whether an email appears to be sent by you or your authorised representative(s), whether and/or when an email was received by us shall be conclusive and binding on you. You agree and acknowledge that no email sent by you or your representative(s) shall be deemed to be received by us unless confirmed or acknowledged by us.
- (r) If we receive an email which seems to us to be sent by you or your authorised representative(s), we may respond to you by sending our written replies directly to the email address from which we received that email.

- (s) Where you or your authorised representative(s) send us email instructions on the withdrawal or transfer of assets out of your Account(s), whether in your favour or in favour of any other party, unless otherwise agreed and accepted by the Bank, such email instructions must be accompanied by an attachment setting out your instructions on the withdrawal or transfer of assets out of your Account(s) and bearing your signature. You authorise us to execute and/or rely on such email instructions notwithstanding that the source of the email instructions, the attachment(s) and/or the signatures appearing in such attachments cannot be authenticated or checked by us. You acknowledge that you are aware of the risks inherent in the giving of email instructions and have fully considered such risks. In particular, non-original signatures in attachments sent in email instructions and/or email instructions without attachment setting out your instructions and bearing your signature may be forged.
- (t) As email is not always reliable and secure, you acknowledge and are aware that email instructions may be transmitted to the wrong email address, may never reach us and may thereby become known to third parties, thereby losing their confidential nature. For example, although at your end, you may have sent an instruction via email, nonetheless, due to a fault in the system, the Bank may not be able to receive the instruction or the instruction may reach the Bank much later. It is also possible that a third party may impersonate you or your authorised representative(s) in transmitting the email instruction to the Bank. In consideration of our agreeing to accept and act on your email instructions, you agree and confirm that you shall indemnify and hold us harmless so that we shall not be liable in any way whatsoever if we fail to act upon your email instruction, fail to act in a timely manner or rely on and act on any email instruction which turns out to be unauthorised or improper (but which we believe in good faith to have been authorised by you or to be proper), or which may arise from errors in transmission or errors by us regarding your identity, the identity of your authorised representative(s) or the nature or amount of the relevant transaction, or email instruction which is not understandable, misrouted, delayed, lost, hacked or not received in full.

- (u) In consideration of our agreeing to accept and act on your email instructions, you further agree and confirm that you shall indemnify us and hold us harmless so that we shall not be liable to you or any third party for Loss, liability or damage, whether arising in contract or tort or otherwise howsoever arising out of or in connection with any such email instructions. You agree that any email instruction received by us may at our discretion be executed by us and any Loss, liability or damage suffered by us may be recovered by the debit of any of your account(s) without prior reference to you.
- (v) Without prejudice to the generality of sub-Clause (i) above, we may at our sole and absolute discretion, refuse to act on any transaction orders, revocations of orders, funds transfer instructions and/or any time-sensitive, action-oriented messages sent via email without any liability to you.

3 Joint Accounts

- (a) The following provisions apply to an Account which is opened in the name of more than one person ("Joint Account").
- (b) Unless we agree otherwise in writing, the Account shall be a Joint Account with right of survivorship and each such person ("Joint Account Holder") shall be jointly and severally liable for all obligations or liabilities incurred in respect of the Account. Accordingly, references to "you" in this Service Agreement refer to each and/or any of the Joint Account Holders. Each Joint Account Holder shall be entitled individually and independently from the other(s) and without limitation to instruct us, operate the Joint Account and close the Joint Account. We are authorised, subject to our policies and procedures, to accept instructions relating to the Joint Account from any one or more Joint Account Holders without notice to the other Joint Account Holder(s). The signature of any one of the Joint Account Holders shall be sufficient to give full discharge to us unless we receive contrary instructions in writing. We shall be entitled to deal separately with any one of the Joint Account Holders on any matter without prejudicing or affecting our rights, powers or remedies against any other Joint Account Holder. We shall have discharged our liability to all Joint Account Holders if we fulfil our obligations to any one or more of them regardless of the Signing Mandate. Notwithstanding this, we may ask for authorisation from all Joint Account Holders for any performance, act, signature or document. In particular, any change or revocation of authority of any Joint Account Holder must come from all the Joint Account Holders.

- (c) We shall have discharged our liability to all Joint Account Holders if we fulfil our obligations to any one or more of them regardless of the Signing Mandate. Our obligation to notify the Joint Account Holders in respect of any matter shall be discharged if we notify any one of the Joint Account Holders. We may, without prejudice to our rights and remedies against any of the Joint Account Holders, settle or vary the liability of or grant time or other indulgence to any one or more of them.
- (d) All remaining Joint Account Holders shall immediately give us written notice of any event that causes a change in ownership (including death of a Joint Account Holder), following which we may take such action as we deem necessary in the circumstances, including requiring such documents or imposing such restrictions on the Joint Account.
- (e) A Joint Account Holder's liability shall not be discharged or affected by:
 - the failure of any term to be binding on any other person;
 - our giving of time, forbearance, indulgence or waiver to any other person;
 - our release or discharge of any other person;
 - the death, bankruptcy, liquidation, disability, limitation, incapacity or any change in the constitution or status of any other person;
 - any irregularity or deficiency in the powers of any other person; and/or
 - any other circumstance which may otherwise affect any liability or obligation of any other person.
- (f) Unless we receive contrary instructions in writing, payments or remittances received or assets delivered in favour of a Joint Account Holder alone will be credited to an account that the Joint Account Holder holds with us in his/her own name, and if that Joint Account Holder does not have an account with us in his/her own name, then those payments or remittances received or assets delivered will be credited to the Joint Account.
- (g) In the event that we receive instructions from one or more Joint Account Holders which appear to be ambiguous or conflicting, or reasonably believe that instructions received from one or more Joint Account Holders are not mutually agreeable to all Joint Account Holders, or receive a court order concerning the Joint Account, we may, without liability to you, decline to take any action (even if such declining may result in loss) and/or take such action as we deem fit.

- (h) A person who is a minor may be a Joint Account Holder if the main applicant is the parent/guardian of the minor. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Signing Mandate, we are not obliged to act on the instructions of any minor. We shall not be liable in any way whatsoever for any Loss which may result from the fact that the minor suffers from any incapacity to act.
- (i) Where the Joint Account Holders are unrelated parties (i.e. any relationship other than spouse, father, mother, brother, sister or child), you (each of the Joint Account Holders) agree as follows:
 - (i) you acknowledge and understand that the terms and conditions of this Service Agreement will apply to you, in particular, the provisions of Clause 23 and the provisions on joint and several liabilities in this Clause 3. You further acknowledge and understand that pursuant to Clause 23, upon the death of any one of the Joint Account Holders, we may (but we shall not be under any obligation) under the "right of survivorship" pay or deliver all the property in the Joint Account to the remaining Joint Account Holders;
 - (ii) you undertake to indemnify us on demand against any claims that may be made against us and against all Losses, costs, damages and reasonable expenses incurred by us or to which we may be put in relation to the Joint Account on any grounds whatsoever;
 - (iii) you authorise us (but we shall not be under any obligation) to settle, release, grant time or pay immediately any amounts claimed by any of the Joint Account Holders without any reference to or further authority from the other Joint Account Holders and without being under any duty to enquire whether any claims or demands on us are properly made, and you undertake to indemnify us in respect of all such payments; and
 - (iv) the indemnity given in this Clause 3 is in addition to and shall not merge with or otherwise prejudice or affect or be prejudiced or affected by any other security or remedy now or hereafter held by or available to us.

- (j) The provisions of this Clause 3 shall govern the legal relationship between you and the Bank exclusively, irrespective of the internal relationship between the Joint Account Holders themselves or their successors, and regardless, in particular, of their respective rights of ownership of the assets in the Joint Account.

4 Partnership Accounts

- (a) The following provisions apply to an Account which is opened in the name of a partnership.
- (b) Where you are a partnership, each partner shall be jointly and severally liable for all obligations or liabilities incurred in respect of the Account. All partners from time to time constituting the partnership shall be bound by the terms of the Contracts.
- (c) In the event of any change in the name of the partnership, in the members of the partnership (by death, retirement or introduction of a partner or otherwise) or in the constitution of the partnership:
 - (i) the liabilities of any partner to us or to any of our Affiliates in respect of the Account shall not be affected and shall continue to be binding on all partners from time to time constituting the partnership; and
 - (ii) we may treat the surviving or continuing partners for the time being as having full power to carry on the business of the partnership and to deal with its assets as freely as if there had been no change in the partnership, unless we receive written notice to the contrary from the partnership or any of the partners or the legal personal representatives or trustees of any of the partners.
- (d) In the event that we receive instructions from any one or more of the partners which appear to be ambiguous or conflicting, or reasonably believe that instructions received from one or more partners are not mutually agreeable to all partners, or receive a court order concerning the Account, we may, without liability to you, decline to take any action (even if such declining may result in loss) and/or take such action as we deem fit.
- (e) Any demand or notice given by us to any one partner shall be deemed to be a demand or notice given to all the partners.

- (f) You undertake to notify us immediately in writing of any change in name, members or constitution of the partnership.

5 Trust Accounts

- (a) The following provisions apply where you are acting in the capacity of a trustee of a trust ("Trust").
- (b) We are entitled to deal with you as if there were no trust constituted or subsisting. Notwithstanding this, you agree that we may treat you as trustee of a trust and to treat the Account as a trust Account to be governed by this Clause 5 even if you have not opened the Account on that basis.
- (c) You are required to provide us with such information and documents on the beneficiaries of the trust as may be required by us. If you cannot disclose such information due to its confidential nature, you must provide us with undertakings in form and substance satisfactory to us and in relation to such matters as we may require from time to time.
- (d) We have no obligations to review the Trust Documents and we shall be deemed not to have knowledge, whether actual or constructive or otherwise, of the provisions of the Trust Documents. Notwithstanding the foregoing, you shall give us written notice of all changes to the Trust Documents, and upon our request, promptly provide us with a certified copy of the most updated Trust Documents.
- (e) You represent and warrant to us (with such representations and warranties being deemed repeated on a continuous basis for so long as you have an Account with us) that:
- (i) the Trust is validly constituted in accordance with all Applicable Regulations;
 - (ii) you are the sole trustee of the Trust and no new trustees have been appointed, and no steps have been taken for you to resign or be replaced as the trustee;
 - (iii) you have the requisite power and authority to give instructions in relation to the operation of the Account and to deal with the assets in the Account, and such power and authority is unconditional and has not been revoked;
 - (iv) there are no restrictions on your right to be indemnified from the assets of the Trust, other than in the express written terms of the Trust Documents or at law. Nothing has occurred to affect that right or our right to be subrogated to that right of indemnity and you are not in default of any provision of the Trust Documents or any duties to the Trust or its beneficiaries; and

- (v) no steps or proceedings have been taken for the winding up or termination of the Trust.
- (f) You shall give us written notice if any of the representations given in this Clause 5 are or become untrue due to change of circumstances or otherwise. If required by us, you will provide us with a legal opinion (in form and substance acceptable to us) to confirm the representations and any other issues or points on which we require confirmation.
- (g) Any indemnity given by you or any of your liabilities or other obligations under this Service Agreement shall be on the basis that we have full recourse to all the assets of the Trust as well as any and all amounts standing to the credit of the Accounts.
- (h) You will be personally liable in respect of any liabilities for which you have no right to be indemnified from the assets of the Trust or where we have no right to be subrogated to such right of indemnity, or in respect of any breach by you of any of the terms of the Contracts.

6 Communication

- (a) We may communicate with you, and you with us, by delivering such communications by:
- hand, courier or post;
 - facsimile transmission;
 - email;
 - telephone;
 - the Online Services (subject to the provisions in respect of the Online Services under this Service Agreement, in particular, the provisions of Clause 34, and the Online Services Terms); and/or
 - the Instant Chat (subject to Clause 6A).

Any other form of communication acceptable to us as agreed by authorised Deutsche Bank personnel.

- (b) Any notice or document that we give to you (including legal process) will be considered to have been received at the earlier of either:
- actual receipt, or

- if given by:
 - (i) hand or by courier, at the time it is left at your last known mailing address or place of residence or business;
 - (ii) mail, on the day falling five (5) Business Days after it is posted to your last known mailing address or place of residence or business;
 - (iii) facsimile transmission, at the time that a correct and complete transmission report is received by us when transmitted to your last known fax number;
 - (iv) email, on the date and time of transmission by the mail server operated by us and/or our service provider to your last known email address; or
 - (v) the Online Services, on the date and time we place such notice or document and make it available in your Online Services profile (subject to the provisions in respect of the Online Services under this Service Agreement, in particular, the provisions of Clause 34, and the Online Services Terms).
- (c) You have a duty to check the entries on every bank statement, contract note, confirmation, advice and other communication from us (“Correspondence”) and inform us promptly of any errors or discrepancies, or if you have not received Correspondence that should have been sent to you. You agree to provide such information as we may reasonably request to enable us to complete our review. Where Correspondence detailing transactions effected in the Account(s) has been sent to you, you are considered to be aware of such transactions and to have authorised those transactions. If you do not object in writing to the contents of any Correspondence within the period specified in Clause 38 or 39 (as applicable) after the date of receipt, you are considered to have accepted conclusively that Correspondence as true and accurate in all respects and conclusive and binding and agree to be bound thereby and to waive all rights and remedies against us.
- (d) We may at any time amend any Correspondence to rectify any error or discrepancy therein.
- (e) We may, but are not obliged to, notify you of effected transactions by telephone, email, SMS or through the Online Services (“Interim Confirmation”). You agree that we are under no duty to ensure the delivery, accuracy, security or confidentiality of the contents of any such Interim Confirmation and that we shall not be liable for any Loss arising out of or in connection therewith. In the event of any inconsistency between the Interim Confirmation and the corresponding trade, execution or transaction advice, confirmation or contract note, the latter shall prevail.

- (f) Where our emails or communications over Instant Chat to you contain attachments and/or information provided by a third party or hyperlinks to other websites or content on the internet that are owned and operated by third parties, you acknowledge that such information has not been independently verified by us. No representation or warranty, express or implied, is made by us or our Affiliates as to the accuracy or correctness of such information, and neither we nor any of our Affiliates shall be liable in any way whatsoever in relation to the same.
- (g) In accordance with Applicable Regulations, there may be circumstances in which we can provide you with information via electronic means, including by way of publication on a website or through the Online Services, where the provision of information in such a format is appropriate to the context in which the business between us is conducted. Unless you inform us otherwise, you agree that you have specifically chosen and consented to the provision of information by electronic means, including by way of publication on a website where appropriate, instead of receiving information on paper.
- (h) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any agreement or document concerning your Account(s) with us, any of your instructions to amend or update your mailing address, place of residence or business, fax number, email address, phone number, or other contact details shall only be effective from the date on which our internal procedures and processes for updating or amending such contact details have been completed, even if you have submitted and we have received such instructions.

6A Instant Chat

You may select to communicate with us through Instant Chat subject to you completing the necessary procedures and/or executing the necessary documents which we at our sole discretion may require. The availability of Instant Chat is subject to Applicable Regulations, Deutsche Bank Group’s internal policies and regulations and the relevant members of the Deutsche Bank Group having the requisite licences or registrations.

- (a) Your use of Instant Chat may be subject to the terms and conditions and privacy policies of third party platforms ("Platform Terms"), which are incorporated into and form part of the terms of this Service Agreement. If there is any conflict or inconsistency between this Service Agreement and the Platform Terms, this Service Agreement shall prevail. You acknowledge that where you use services provided by a third party platform in connection with your use of Instant Chat, you will be subject to the Platform Terms and you should ensure that you have read the Platform Terms.
- (b) You shall be responsible for obtaining and using the necessary web browser and/or other software and/or hardware and/or equipment necessary to obtain access to Instant Chat at your own risk and expense. If new or different versions of the web browser and/or other software and/or hardware and/or equipment necessary for the access to Instant Chat becomes available, we reserve the right not to support any prior version of the web browser or other software or hardware equipment. If you, any user and/or any authorised signatory fail to upgrade the relevant software and/or web browser or to use the enhanced version of the same as required by us, we may reject or may not receive your communications, or you may not be able to obtain access to Instant Chat and we shall not be held liable as a result thereof.
- (c) You must not use or attempt to use Instant Chat to (i) violate any law, regulation, court judgment, resolution or order or administrative measure that are legally binding; (ii) adversely affect the reputation of the Bank; (iii) damage or interfere with the components, data, software or information technology systems of Instant Chat; (iv) infringe Intellectual Property Rights and all other rights of the Bank granted by law or contract; (v) send any offensive, inflammatory, defamatory, fraudulent, threatening, discriminatory, inappropriate or otherwise unlawful information; (vi) cause any misrepresentation of the Bank or spread false or misleading information; or (vii) cause annoyance or inconvenience to the Bank. You further undertake not to do or omit to do any act which would cause the Bank to be in breach of its obligations to any third party licensor or service provider, as notified to you in advance.
- (d) You acknowledge and accept that due to restrictions under the laws of some countries, you may not be able to access or use the Instant Chat in these countries. You also acknowledge that it is your duty to ascertain whether any laws will be infringed and will not hold us liable for any infringement or inability to access or use the Instant Chat.
- (e) In relation to any communications sent by you to us via Instant Chat, the following shall apply:
 - (i) Any communication which seems to us to be sent via Instant Chat by you or your authorised representative(s) shall be conclusively presumed for our benefit to be from you or your authorised representative(s) and you or your authorised representative(s) shall be fully responsible for the same. Our determination of whether a communication appears to be sent by you or your authorised representative(s), whether and/or when a communication was received by us shall be conclusive and binding on you. You agree and acknowledge that no communication sent by you or your authorised representative(s) shall be deemed to be received by us unless confirmed or acknowledged by us.
 - (ii) If we receive a communication which seems to us to be sent by you or your authorised representative(s), we may respond to you by sending our written replies directly to the Instant Chat account from which we received such communication.
 - (iii) As Instant Chat is not always reliable and secure, you acknowledge and are aware that instructions sent by you or your authorised representative(s) via Instant Chat may be transmitted to the wrong Instant Chat account, may never reach us and may thereby become known to third parties, thereby losing their confidential nature. For example, although at your end, you may have sent an instruction via Instant Chat, nonetheless, due to a fault in the system, the Bank may not be able to receive the instruction or the instruction may reach the Bank much later. It is also possible that a third party may impersonate you or your authorised representative(s) in transmitting the instruction to the Bank. In consideration of our agreeing to accept and act on your instructions sent via Instant Chat, you agree and confirm that you shall indemnify and hold us harmless so that we shall not be liable in any way whatsoever if we fail to act upon your instruction, fail to act in a timely manner or rely on and act on any instruction which turns out to be unauthorised or improper (but which we believe in good faith to have been authorised by you or to be proper), or which may arise from errors in transmission or errors by us regarding your identity, the identity of your authorised representative(s) or the nature or amount of the relevant transaction, or instruction which is not understandable, misrouted, delayed, lost, hacked or not received in full.

- (iv) In consideration of our agreeing to accept and act on your instructions sent via Instant Chat, you further agree and confirm that you shall indemnify us and hold us harmless so that we shall not be liable to you or any third party for Loss, liability or damage, whether arising in contract or tort or otherwise howsoever arising out of or in connection with any such instructions. You agree that any such instructions received by us may at our discretion be executed by us and any Loss, liability or damage suffered by us may be recovered by the debit of any of your account(s) without prior reference to you.
- (v) We may, at our sole and absolute discretion, refuse to act on any transaction orders, revocation of orders, funds transfer instructions and/or any time-sensitive, action-oriented messages sent via Instant Chat without any liability to you.

7 Hold mail

- (a) You may request for our “hold mail” service. Under this service, we will not post any mail (including letters, account/deposit statements, statements, confirmations concerning transactions, contract notes, credit and debit advices, reminders, notices of termination, mail from authorities or other third parties, communications, consignments and concerning any of your Accounts and/or transactions with us (including balance confirmation, transaction advice and account closing statement)) (“Mail”) intended for you but will keep such Mail at our office on the terms below or otherwise prescribed by us. This Clause 7 shall only apply to Accounts which have requested for, and which we have agreed to provide, “hold mail” service.
- (b) You agree that we may debit your Account for “hold mail” service fees which we inform you and may be changed from time to time in accordance with the terms of the Service Agreement.

- (c) You acknowledge that we may reject this request for “hold mail” at our sole discretion without having to provide any reasons.
- (d) All Mail addressed to you, including mail received for your Account by us, but excluding the demand or notice referred to in Clause 18, shall be kept by us.
- (e) You accept full liability for all risks and for any loss or damage that may arise from the present request. In particular, we shall not be under any obligation to carry out any acts or legal measures of our own accord. You are aware that the “hold mail” request prevents you from monitoring and controlling the Account and transactions and agree that we shall have no responsibility or liability for any loss, claim, liability or consequence whatsoever arising from or in connection with the carrying out of the said request or any instructions pursuant to these conditions, and/or your inability, delay or failure in responding to the Mail resulting from non-despatch or non-collection thereof or the despatch to/collection by a party other than yourself.
- (f) Any Mail held by us shall in principle be delivered only against acknowledgement of receipt by you or persons who have a power of attorney (including a limited power of attorney) or who are Authorised Signatories or nominated by you in writing (hereinafter referred to as the “Authorised Representatives”). We shall be entitled to deliver any Mail to you or an Authorised Representative in such manner as we may in our sole discretion decide, upon us receiving written or verbal instruction from you relating to such delivery.
- (g) In the event that we send you any statements or Mail every six (6) calendar months by such method as you have indicated to us, you acknowledge that you have necessarily to accept delivery of such statements or Mail. You expressly declare that you are aware of and understand and shall bear the important risks (in particular, the interception of emails and facsimile by non-authorised third parties) and the potential damage which may result from the transfer of data (mail etc.) by means of emails and facsimile and release us from any liability in this regard. You further waive the right to assert any potential violation of banking secrecy and/or data protection regulations in the context of us delivering the Mail to you in accordance with the terms herein. In the event that you choose to accept delivery of such statements or Mail by mail or by courier to the address you have specified, you hereby expressly instruct us to send the Mail (in original or in copy) together with such statements or Mail to the address you have specified without requesting or waiting for further instructions.

- (h) We may at any time release Mail to you or an Authorised Representative if you or such Authorised Representative appear at our premises provided always that we reserve the right to require production of the identification documents of you or such Authorised Representative as maybe acceptable to us and where the Authorised Representative requires delivery of the Mail, we shall also be entitled without any liability to rely on a written authorisation bearing the signature(s) corresponding with that of yourself or that of your Authorised Signatories.
- (i) Should you not comply with your duty under sub-Clause (j) below, we reserve the right and you agree to this right, to send the Mail (in original or in copy) to your address last known to us and/or to contact you and/or until further notice to freeze the Account and/or to terminate our business relationship with you. In case of the freeze of the Account, only orders for the transfer of assets and orders for the sale of assets would in principle and at our entire discretion be executed. Investment instructions or rollover of term deposits for example might however, as the case may be, not be executed, and incoming transfers might be rejected, and this without any liability whatsoever for us.
- (j) You acknowledge that you will accept delivery of the Mail yourself at least once every twelve (12) calendar months. You hereby expressly instruct us to send the Mail (in original or in copy) once every twelve (12) months at our discretion to your address last known to us without requesting or waiting for further instructions.
- (k) You are presumed to have received any Mail retained by us according to the present request for "hold mail". Any Mail will be deemed to have been delivered to and received by you on the day on which you are deemed to have received the Mail in accordance with the provisions of Clause 6(a) (in respect of which our records regarding the delivery date and time shall be conclusive) and you shall be considered to have full notice of the contents thereof from that day. You shall be further deemed to have consented to the contents of such communication if you fail to make any objections within the period specified in Clause 38 or 39 (as applicable). In the event of changes relating to fees, charges or your liabilities and obligations over which we have control, you shall be deemed to have consented to such amendments if you fail to make any objections within thirty (30) days therefrom.
- (l) We shall be entitled to despatch the Mail to another office or branch of the Bank by sending the same by ordinary post to the address of the office/branch of the Bank (as the case may be), upon us receiving written instruction from you relating to such despatch. We shall be entitled without liability to rely on any written instruction bearing the signature(s) corresponding with that of you or your Authorised Signatories.
- (m) Notwithstanding the request and/or instruction given pursuant to sub-Clause (j) and (l) above, we shall be entitled (but are not obliged) to despatch Mail to you by sending the same, in such manner as we may in our sole discretion decide, to your address last known to us in the event we at our sole discretion terminate this "hold mail" arrangement by notice in writing to you, and you authorise us to despatch the termination notice to you by sending the same, in such manner as we may in our sole discretion decide, to your address last known to us. We may also send any Mail to you, in such manner as we may in our sole discretion decide, to your address last known to us, if we in our sole discretion decide that it is advisable to do so. The termination notice shall be deemed to have been received by you three (3) days from the date stated thereon, notwithstanding any failure in delivery.
- (n) Should any Mail despatched by us to you pursuant to this request and/or instruction, or sub-Clauses (g), (j), (l) and (m) above, be returned unclaimed to us by postal authorities, we shall be entitled to retain the same pending collection thereof by you and shall not be required to make any further attempt to despatch such returned Mail. You also acknowledge that we may take further actions as part of our control processes.
- (o) Our record in respect of any collection, despatch, delivery and matter relating to the Mail shall be conclusive.
- (p) Mail held for pick up shall be collected by you at regular intervals. We are authorised without further notice to destroy any Mail which remains undelivered/not collected after two (2) years from the date stated thereon or two (2) years after your Account has been terminated. However, we may also reject any request to destroy Mail without having to provide any reasons.

- (q) Once accepted by us, any “hold mail” request shall remain valid until it is cancelled in writing.
- (r) These conditions may be amended by us at any time, and our notice of such amendments shall be treated as part of the Mail and shall be subjected accordingly to these conditions.

8 Fees and payment obligations

- (a) We may charge you fees and/or charge for the Services we provide to you, which may be changed with not less than thirty (30) days’ notice, unless otherwise required by the Applicable Regulations. We may also at our sole discretion charge you fees and/or charges which are lower than those stated in the Schedule of Charges for the Services we provide to you. We may remunerate or share fees with a third party for referring new business. We shall not be obliged to report to you on any fees that we may pay to such third party, and such discretion to make payments shall lie solely and exclusively with us. You acknowledge that it is incumbent on you to obtain exclusively from the relevant third party any information concerning the nature, amount and method of calculation of these payments.
- (b) You have to pay us all interest on monies due to us at such rate(s) and on such terms as we may specify from time to time. We may change or modify any rate of interest at any time without prior notice, to the extent permitted under Applicable Regulations. Where the reference rate is stipulated as “Cost of funds”, subject to change upon notice to you, this reference rate in relation to any relevant sum and period shall be the rate determined by us in our discretion, taking into account the rate per annum for deposit in amount and for a period comparable to such sum which is or would be offered to us by prime banks in the Hong Kong or Singapore inter-bank market (as the case may be) or such other rate as determined by us in our sole discretion, including but not limited to cost, whether related to funding or otherwise. A higher rate of interest may be charged on amounts not paid when due or overdrawn without prior agreement, compounded as we may notify you from time to time.
- (c) You will pay all sums due to us without demand in immediately available funds at our Singapore or Hong Kong office (as the case may be) or to any other account we specify without set-off, counterclaim or any other condition and free and clear of any tax or other deductions or withholdings of any nature. If you are or any other person is required by Applicable Regulations to make any withholding from any payment, you must pay such additional amount so that we receive the full amount which we would have received if no such withholding or deduction was required. You agree that we may deduct or withhold payments from you if such deduction or withholding is required or otherwise made pursuant to Applicable Regulations or any contractual or other commitment of us or any members of Deutsche Bank Group with any Regulators.

- (d) If we receive payment for any amount owed by you to us in a currency other than the currency in which such amount is owed (“Currency of Account”), we may convert that payment into the Currency of Account on such terms as we may determine. You agree to the conversion of any such currency and acknowledge and agree to the risk of exchange rate fluctuations that may cause a Loss on conversion of the currency. You shall continue to be liable for any shortfall as a result of such conversion.
- (e) We may choose to grant you credit for meeting any payment obligation or carrying out any instructions. If we do so, such liabilities shall be repayable by you on our demand (unless we agree otherwise in writing) and shall bear interest at a rate we notify you in writing from time to time.
- (f) Where any security, disposition or payment to us by you, any Collateral Provider or Guarantor is or becomes invalid for any reason, any discharge of you or any Collateral Provider or Guarantor by us shall be void to the extent that such security, disposition or payment to us is invalidated and you and such Collateral Provider and/or Guarantor shall make good to us upon demand such amount as has been invalidated.
- (g) You shall indemnify us against, and we may without prior notice and at any time debit your Account(s) with, all sums owed by you to us, including all costs and expenses reasonably incurred in connection with the Services provided reasonable expenses incurred in the enforcement of our rights or the recovery of any amount due to us and any sum which you are required to indemnify us for.

9 Conditional payments

- (a) If we are to credit your Account with the amount due under a collection order, the countervalue of instruments or direct debits, such credit entries are conditional on receiving punctual payment in full, whether or not we have issued a periodic statement and even if these items are payable at the Bank.
- (b) If these instruments or direct debits are not paid or if we do not obtain the amount under the collection order, or if we have credited any of your Accounts by mistake, we may cancel the conditional credit entry and deduct such amounts from your Account(s) (including interest and costs).

10 Disclosure of information and outsourcing

Please refer to Annex 7A for provisions relating to the disclosure of information and outsourcing.

11 Protection of deposits

Please refer to Annex 6 for information relating to protection of any deposits which you place with us.

12 Conflicts

- (a) You acknowledge that we provide services in respect of a wide range of investment related activities to a number of different clients and accordingly that we may have an interest, relationship or arrangement that is material in relation to a transaction effected with or for you (or the financial instrument or other investment which is the subject of the transaction) or that could give rise to a conflict of interests.
- (b) The Deutsche Bank Group maintains and operates permanent and effective organisational and administrative arrangements, including those referred to in clause 13 (Information Barriers and Independence), with a view to taking all appropriate steps designed to identify and prevent or manage conflicts of interest between Deutsche Bank (and any Deutsche Bank entity or any manager, employee or tied agent) and you or between Deutsche Bank's clients that arise in the course of providing any investment services and ancillary services, or combinations thereof. Further information as to how the Deutsche Bank Group identifies and manages potential conflicts of interest can be found in Conflicts of Interest Policy – Deutsche Bank Group available at <https://www.db.com/coi>.

- (c) The following are some examples of the types of interests, relationships or arrangements that we may have in a transaction or in the instrument the subject of the transaction:
 - We may carry out transactions through or with affiliated parties even if a conflict of interest may arise. Parties affiliated with us may be buying, selling, holding significant long or short positions, acting as investment and/or commercial bankers, engaging in market making or be represented on the board of the issuer of the securities represented in any of the investments that we may make;
 - We may be dealing with affiliated parties or be buying, selling or investing in financial products, schemes or instruments that may be issued, operated, advised, managed or arranged by affiliated parties;
 - We may be the financial adviser or lending banker to a company whose securities are the subject of the transaction, or acting for, or as adviser to, that company in a merger, acquisition or takeover bid by or for it;
 - We may be dealing in securities which are the subject of the transaction, a related security or an asset underlying the security, as principal for an entity in the Deutsche Bank Group's own account or that of someone else. This could include selling to you or buying from you and also dealing with or using the services of an intermediate broker or other agent who may be an entity in the Deutsche Bank Group;
 - We may be matching (e.g. by way of a cross) your transaction with that of another client of the Bank by acting on such client's behalf as well as on your behalf;
 - We may be buying from you and selling immediately to another client of the Bank, or vice versa;
 - We may be holding a position (including a short position) in the investment concerned, a related investment or an asset underlying the investment;
 - We may be sponsoring, underwriting or otherwise participating in, whether previously or concurrently, the issue of the investment or an associated investment;
 - We may be a market maker or otherwise having a holding or dealing position in the investment concerned or an associated investment;

- We may be buying or selling units in a collective investment scheme where an entity in the Deutsche Bank Group is the trustee, operator or manager (or an adviser of the trustee, operator or manager) of the scheme;
 - We may be an affiliate of the issuer of the investment or an associated investment;
 - We may be providing investment research in relation to an entity or group to which it also provides investment advisory or corporate finance services;
 - We may be providing or having provided venture capital or related advice to the company whose securities are the subject of the transaction; and/or
 - As part of a financing transaction, we may be acquiring securities or an interest in securities which may subsequently be disposed of by the Bank by way of enforcement. This may include securities (A) in respect of which the Bank is a market maker; and/or (B) which are issued by a company for which the Bank acts; and/or (C) which were previously subject to an offering by the Bank, and as such we may be subject to conflicts of interest.
 - We maintain and operate permanent and effective organisational and administrative arrangements with a view to: (i) taking all appropriate steps designed to identify, record and prevent or manage conflicts of interest between us (and any other entity in the Deutsche Bank Group or any manager, employee or tied agent) and you or between our clients that arise in the course of providing any investment services and ancillary services or combinations thereof and (ii) to preventing such conflicts from giving rise to a material risk of damage to our clients and to ensuring that our clients are treated fairly.
- (d) If you object to our acting where we have disclosed that we have a conflict or material interest, you should notify us in writing. Unless so notified, we will assume that you do not object to us so acting.
- (e) To the extent permitted under Applicable Regulations, you consent to our crossing your trades with our own house trades and/or with the trades of our other clients.

13. Information Barriers and Independence

- (a) We will not, in the course of providing services to you, be obligated to make use of or disclose to you (or where applicable, your principal or principals) information, whether or not unpublished and/or price sensitive, which is in the possession of any Deutsche Bank entity, in circumstances where the Deutsche Bank entity or the particular Deutsche Bank personnel who are at that time handling your (or where applicable, your principal's or principals') affairs are prevented from knowing or taking account of such information by reason of Deutsche Bank's information barriers or independence policies or Applicable Regulations. Deutsche Bank has an information control policy that states that information will only be shared between Deutsche Bank entities and Deutsche Bank personnel on a need to know basis and only to the extent permitted by Applicable Regulations and that information from a particular client remains confidential to that client.
- (b) Although personnel of different Deutsche Bank entities may work closely together, strict segregation of information is observed between personnel engaged in (i) research; (ii) sales and trading; (iii) asset management; (iv) corporate finance advisory; and (v) other banking activities; regardless of the Deutsche Bank entity for which they might carry on their duties.
- (c) Deutsche Bank personnel will provide you with services on the basis of the information known to the particular personnel who are at that time handling your (or where applicable, your principal's or principals') affairs.

14. Power of attorney

You irrevocably appoint us as attorney, with full power of substitution, and in your name and on your behalf, to do all things which may be required or which we may think fit for carrying out any of your obligations under the Contracts with us or contracts for any sale, disposal or other dealing. You undertake to take all necessary steps to give us the authority to do so. You ratify and confirm (and agree to ratify and confirm) all our acts and deeds in exercise of this power.

15. Force majeure

- (a) We shall not be liable or responsible for any Loss suffered or incurred by you arising from any delay, failure or inability on our part or on the part of any Agent to discharge any of our obligations in connection with the Account(s) and/or any Service as a result of any reason or cause beyond our control or the Agent's control or for which we or our Agent are/is not responsible, or any suspension of the Account(s) or Service under sub-Clause (b) below.

- (b) We may, at our discretion, at any time and for any reason whatsoever including any event or failure which is beyond our control or the control of any Agent or for the purpose of complying with any Applicable Regulations or at the request of any Regulators, suspend operation of the Account(s) or any Service and/or take any other action as we deem fit.
- (c) In the event of any limitation on use or unavailability or non-payment of funds due to exchange restrictions, inconvertibility or any other cause beyond our control, we may, at our discretion, terminate the transaction and discharge our foreign currency obligations in accordance with market practice.

16 Indemnity

- (a) You are liable for all commissions, charges, costs, expenses, duties and taxes (including fines and penalties) reasonably incurred in connection with the existence, execution, delivery, enforcement or attempted enforcement of this Service Agreement, any other Contract, Event of Default or the exercise of any of our Rights on Termination on a full indemnity basis and this obligation shall survive termination of this Service Agreement. Any action which we take or omit to take in connection with any Account, the Services or any instructions or transactions shall be solely for your account and risk.
- (b) Unless due to our negligence, wilful misconduct or fraud, you will fully indemnify and keep indemnified the Bank and our Affiliates, nominees, Agents and any director, officer, employee or agent of any of the foregoing (each an "Indemnified Person") against any and all Loss which any of them may suffer or incur in connection with any Account, any Service or any instructions, including such Loss arising from, in connection with or by reason of:
 - (i) our acting upon any instructions purportedly given by you to us;
 - (ii) our using any system or means of transmission, communication, transportation or otherwise in carrying out such instructions (including by reason of loss, delay, misunderstandings, mistakes, distortions or duplications);

- (iii) our provision of any Services to you;
 - (iv) any transaction contemplated under this Service Agreement, the Account Application, any Services Document, any Security Document or in respect of an Account;
 - (v) any default in repayment or payment upon demand of any advances or other amounts made available to you and/or interest accrued thereon and/or any sum payable in any applicable currency under this Service Agreement or other document whatsoever you entered into in relation to your obligations to us;
 - (vi) any breach by you of any Applicable Regulations, any third party rights, this Service Agreement, the Account Application, the Services Documents, Security Documents or any other agreement entered into between you and the Bank; and/or
 - (vii) our enforcing or attempting to enforce any rights we may have against you pursuant to this Service Agreement, the Account Application, the Services Documents or the Security Documents.
- (c) We shall not at any time be liable for any indirect or consequential Loss even if you may have advised us of the possibility of such Loss.
 - (d) Each Indemnified Person shall be entitled to every exemption from liability, every defence and every indemnity to which we are entitled. For the avoidance of doubt, this Clause 16 and all our rights hereunder shall apply and be available to each Indemnified Person regardless of whether the Loss or any part thereof were caused by us (other than Loss which result directly and solely from our negligence, wilful default or fraud).

17 Set-off

- (a) We may retain and not repay any amount payable by us or any Affiliate to you, or any moneys which we or any Affiliate may hold, now or hereafter, for your Account(s) (including your joint Account with others), unless and until you discharge in full all your Liabilities. We may apply any such amount against all such Liabilities and expenses, fees and claims reasonably incurred by us and/or any Affiliate. "Liabilities" shall mean any and all monies, liabilities and obligations (whether or not arising under this Service Agreement) which are or may become due, payable or owing by you from time to time to us or any of our Affiliates (including obligations which may be assumed by us in favour of you or other persons at your request), whether present or future, joint or several, as principal or surety, actual or contingent and in any currency and including costs on a full indemnity basis.

(b) We may at any time without notice to you:

- (i) combine all or any of your accounts with us or any Affiliate, now or in the future, or transfer any sums held for you or standing to the credit of such accounts (whether subject to notice or not and whether mature or not) towards satisfaction of your Liabilities, even if such accounts and your Liabilities may be at different Affiliates and booked or payable in different jurisdictions and currencies; and/or
- (ii) set off, sell, realise or transfer any monies, securities and other assets over which we or any Affiliate have or has a charge, lien, right of retainer, security interest or such other encumbrances in such manner as we think fit in or towards satisfaction of the Liabilities.

(c) We may effect, at your cost, any necessary conversions at our prevailing exchange rates for the purposes of exercising the rights under this Clause 17.

(d) In the case of a Joint Account or partnership Account, we may exercise our rights in this Clause 17 and apply any credit balance in such Joint Account or partnership Account in or towards satisfaction of any Liabilities owed to us and/or any Affiliate by one or more of the Joint Account Holders or partners (as the case may be).

(e) Our rights here shall not limit and are in addition to any general or banker's lien, right of set-off or any other rights to which we are entitled.

18 Security

(a) We may (but need not) grant you Facilities in accordance with the terms of this Service Agreement or other terms as may be agreed. All Facilities are made available on an uncommitted basis and subject to provision of adequate Collateral. We may require you to provide (sometimes at very short notice in view of market movements) sufficient Collateral for your Liabilities as determined by us in our discretion. We may from time to time require additional Collateral to meet the requirements for security or margin or collateral prescribed by us ("Collateral Requirement") for the relevant Services.

(b) Collateral shall be valued at such percentage of its market value as we may determine at our sole discretion ("Collateral Value"). The Collateral Value or the acceptability of any Collateral may be determined or changed at any time and from time to time at our discretion.

(c) We shall in our absolute discretion prescribe the amount of Collateral that you or any other Collateral Provider must provide to us in order to secure your Liabilities, and may from time to time in any way amend or add such Collateral Requirements. If we shall for any reason deem that there is insufficient or ineligible existing Collateral already held by us that is available to satisfy your Liabilities, you shall within one (1) Business Days' notice deliver additional Collateral of a type acceptable to us in our sole discretion (which Collateral shall be delivered and secured pursuant to any existing security arrangements or other arrangement in a form satisfactory to us in our sole discretion) in an amount as may be required by us. The Collateral provided to us as security for your Liabilities is in addition to and without prejudice to any other Collateral which we may now or hereafter hold. We may at our sole discretion apportion or allocate the Collateral provided by you amongst your Liabilities to be secured and may request for additional Collateral from you if we shall for any reason deem that there is insufficient or ineligible Collateral to secure a specific transaction notwithstanding that the amount of the Collateral securing the other transactions is in excess of your obligations to us or any of our Affiliates under those transactions.

(d) If you fail to deliver any Collateral to us when required, such failure shall constitute an Event of Default in respect of you pursuant to Clause 19 below and we shall be entitled to exercise any of our Rights on Termination.

(e) Without prejudice to the foregoing, we shall have the right, in our sole discretion, at any time to terminate and close out ("Close-out") any or all outstanding contracts or transactions that you may have entered into with or through us, for any reasons (including, without limitation, if there are or may be rapid or unusual changes in the market or we otherwise believe that it is in our interests to reduce or limit our credit exposure to you, notwithstanding that a demand for additional Collateral has been made and that the time period to satisfy that demand has not expired). Any such termination shall be deemed to be as a result of an Event of Default and we shall be entitled to exercise any of our Rights on Termination. You acknowledge that you shall be liable for any Loss arising out of the Close-out of any contracts or the exercise of any of our Rights on Termination.

- (f) You shall, and shall procure that each Collateral Provider shall, immediately upon demand by us and at your expense (including the payment of any legal charges and fees incurred by us), do all such things or provide such further assurances as we shall from time to time require to perfect, protect or enforce the Collateral or any part thereof and our title to the security thereby constituted or intended to be constituted by the Collateral, and to give effect to any of the rights conferred on us, including any assignments and rights of subrogation. Save with our prior written consent, you shall not, and shall procure that each Collateral Provider does not, sell, transfer, assign, encumber, pledge, create any or permit to subsist any further security interest over, dispose of or otherwise deal with the Collateral or any part thereof or any interest therein.
- (g) Notwithstanding that we may be appointed as a custodian or agent or otherwise act in any other capacity for all or part of the Collateral, we may upon the enforcement of our rights, sell, dispose of, realise or otherwise deal with the Collateral as your agent or as mortgagee or pledgee thereof, as the case may be, as we may at our discretion deem fit without any liability whatsoever.

19 Events of default

- (a) Each of the following events in relation to you or any Collateral Provider or Guarantor (collectively the "Parties") shall be an Event of Default:
 - (i) failure to pay when due any sum payable under any Contract with us, our Affiliates or any third party or otherwise on any Account;
 - (ii) failure to provide acceptable or additional Collateral as and when we require;
 - (iii) any security arrangement is withdrawn or becomes in our sole opinion defective or inadequate;

- E. has an administrator, judicial manager, liquidator, receiver, trustee or other similar officer appointed in respect of the Party or any of its assets or undertakings;
- F. enters into a general arrangement, composition, scheme of arrangement or moratorium with or for the benefit of its creditors;
- G. has a secured party take possession of any of its assets or has a distress, execution, attachment, sequestration or other legal process levied, enforced or sued on or against any of its assets; and/or
- H. (if the Party is a natural person) dies or becomes mentally incapacitated or suffers some other form of legal disability or a judicial declaration of incompetence is made in respect of the Party;

- (ix) failure to notify us in writing immediately after any of the Parties becomes aware of the occurrence of, or the impending or threatened occurrence of, any Event of Default; and/or
- (x) any other matter or event arises, including any regulatory requirement, which we in our discretion determine to be disadvantageous or prejudicial to our interests.

20 Remedies

- (a) If an Event of Default has occurred, we may at any time and (unless otherwise indicated) without prior notice to you do any or all of the following in addition to exercising our rights under Clause 17 ("Rights on Termination"):
- (i) close-out any or all outstanding contracts or transactions upon giving you notice regarding the Event of Default;
 - (ii) determine all amounts payable under or value of all contracts or transactions (including Closed-out contracts or transactions);
 - (iii) set off the obligations of each party to pay an amount to the other party under the contracts and determine a single net amount payable thereunder;
 - (iv) in any manner sell, realise or otherwise deal with any or all of your property or Collateral we hold and apply the sale proceeds (after deduction of costs) to discharge your Liabilities;
 - (v) call on any standby letter of credit or banker's guarantee that has been provided to us as security for any facility or service extended by us to you;
 - (vi) convert any amount payable by you into a currency at a rate as we may determine;
 - (vii) cancel any outstanding order or other commitments made on your behalf;
 - (viii) borrow or purchase any securities required to make delivery on your behalf; and/or

28 Initial public offerings and placings

When you have indicated that you would like to undertake subscriptions or purchases of Specified Securities in initial public offerings and placings, in addition to the other provisions in this Service Agreement, you further represent, warrant and agree that:

- (a) you are not acting in concert with any parties related or otherwise to the issuer of the Specified Securities and you will not offer or sell any securities to such parties;
- (b) you agree to sign and return all documentation as may be required by us in relation to any initial public offering or placing within the time frame stipulated by us in order to enable us to effect the subscription or purchase of the Specified Securities on your behalf. If you fail to return the required documentation before the stipulated time frame, we may:
 - (i) treat your subscription or purchase as cancelled and may not allocate the Specified Securities to you; and
 - (ii) take such actions as we in our discretion consider appropriate or desirable to deal with such Specified Securities including disposing such Specified Securities at such price(s) as we deem appropriate. You shall bear any economic losses arising out of the disposal of such Specified Securities and shall indemnify us for all reasonable costs and expenses and/or Losses in connection with such disposal pursuant to the terms of this Service Agreement; and
- (c) you confirm that you have received, read and understood, the contents of the relevant prospectus, offering circular or other disclosure document and agree to be bound by them, and your application is not in breach of such terms and conditions. In the case of a secondary offering or placing, you understand that no offering circular or other disclosure document may be prepared in connection with the subscription or purchase and placing of the Specified Securities. You confirm that you shall not request subscriptions to initial public offerings and secondary offerings and placings unless eligible to do so under the applicable securities legislation.

29 Custody services

We may provide custody services for your securities and assets ("Assets"). Our custody services involve holding Assets on your behalf in custody. The main features of this service are set out below and we provide this service as follows:

- (a) you hereby request and consent to us providing, as we deem fit (and without obligation), custody services to you for Assets delivered to or collected by us on your behalf and by opening any account or sub-account (whether in your name or on your behalf), depositing or lodging your Assets with any banking or financial institution, securities or clearing institution, depository, depository agent, custodian, sub-custodian or other entity wherever situate as we may in our absolute discretion select, including in non-EEA jurisdictions, (each a "Nominee"), upon such other terms and conditions as may be approved by us, and you hereby agree to be bound thereby.
- (b) Please note that, except as required by law, any cash held in the Account is held by us as banker. You agree that we may pay the fees, costs, commissions and other expenses of such Nominee.
- (c) The Nominee in turn shall be entitled to appoint, without your further consent, any other person to act as sub-custodian or nominee of the Assets. Where we deposit Assets with a third party, we carry out due diligence in the selection, appointment and periodic review of the third party and of the arrangements for the holding and safekeeping of those Assets. In particular, we take into account the expertise and market reputation of the third party as well as any legal requirements related to the holding of financial instruments that could adversely affect clients' rights. We shall not be liable or responsible for any act or omission of, or any insolvency, fraud, default, negligence or dissolution of, any such sub-custodian, nominee or Nominee or any of its officers, employees, servants or agents in connection with the Assets in its custody and any Loss which you may suffer or incur arising from or in connection therewith.

- (d) We hold your financial instruments in custody subject to the protections provided by Applicable Regulations. This requires us to keep accurate records and accounts enabling us to distinguish your financial instruments from those held for other clients and from our own assets, to regularly reconcile our internal records and accounts and those of any third parties with whom your financial instruments are held, to take the steps outlined below when we deposit your financial instruments with third parties and to have adequate organisational requirements to minimise the risk of loss or diminution of your financial instruments.
- (e) All or any of the Assets will be registered and/or held in our name or the name of our Nominee provided that we may delay in procuring any such registration or delivery for such periods as we in our discretion think fit. We may keep all or part of the Assets under collective administration at any central depository or custodian for securities in any country. You must provide us with any necessary authority or proxies relating to the Assets.
- (f) We may from time to time (if the financial instruments are subject to the law or market practice of a jurisdiction outside Germany (the jurisdiction where Deutsche Bank AG is incorporated in) and we have taken reasonable steps to determine that it is in your best interests to register in that way or it is not feasible to do otherwise because of the nature of the applicable law or market practice) register or record legal title to your financial instruments in the name of a third party (such as a sub-custodian) or in our name, provided that:
 - (i) if registering in the name of a third party, we are prevented from registering the financial instruments in your name or the name of a Nominee; and
 - (ii) if registering in our name, we are prevented from registering the financial instruments in your name, the name of a Nominee or in the name of the third party.
- (g) Where your financial instruments are recorded in the name of a third party or in our name (rather than in the name of a Nominee), in the event of the third party's or our default those financial instruments may not be as well protected from claims made on behalf of the creditors of the third party or us, as applicable.
- (h) We or our Nominee need not segregate Assets held in your custody account from assets we or our Nominee holds for another customer but we will segregate such Assets from our proprietary assets. This means that Assets held on your behalf by us may be pooled with segregated financial instruments belonging to our other clients and held in an omnibus account. Accordingly, you will not necessarily have the right to any specific financial instruments but will instead be entitled subject to any Applicable Regulations to the transfer or delivery of an amount of financial instruments of the same description and the same amount. Your interest in the Assets may not be identifiable by separate certificates, other physical documents or equivalent electronic records. However, we will or procure that a Nominee will maintain records of your interest in the Assets which have been commingled. In this situation:
 - (i) in the event of a loss of Assets held in an omnibus account that was not made good, you may not receive your full entitlement and it is likely that you would share in the shortfall together with other clients of ours who hold securities in the omnibus account on a pro-rata basis;
 - (ii) any distribution of entitlements to any benefits, or distribution of entitlements arising as a result of corporate action, will be allocated pro rata provided that (A) fractions of entitlements that arise as a result of this process will be rounded down to the nearest whole unit or share and (B) the accumulated amount of any undistributed entitlements arising as a result of this process will be sold and the proceeds allocated pro rata; and
 - (iii) where there is an allocation or share issue with rights weighted towards smaller investors, your allocation may be less than it otherwise would have been.
- (i) Where we, our Nominee or any sub-custodian hold your Assets with those of other customers in an omnibus client account, you may be exposed to settlement risks arising from the transactions of such other clients in that financial instrument. Your Assets may be pooled with financial instruments of the same description of ours, and those of other customers, in the course of settlement, and as a result may be used by us for our own account, or for the account of other customers. You consent to your Assets being held in an omnibus client account and to the use of your Assets in this way.

- (j) Assets placed with a Nominee are placed at your sole risk. We do not act as a trustee and have no trust or other obligations in respect of your Assets other than those expressly provided in this Service Agreement.
- (k) Any Assets held by us as custodian or a Nominee shall be subject to our rights of lien and set-off as set out in this Service Agreement, and may also be subject to other similar rights or security interests of ours under other agreements between us.
- (l) We may grant security interests or liens over your Assets enabling a third party sub-custodian to dispose of your financial instruments in order to recover debts that relate to our clients or the provision of services to our clients, or otherwise where this is required by applicable law in a Third Country Jurisdiction in which your financial instruments are held.
- (m) Where your Assets are held in a jurisdiction outside the European Economic Area (a “Third Country Jurisdiction”) which require the grant of such security interests or liens there is a risk that, if we fail or are unable to make any payment due to a third party sub-custodian, your financial instruments could be applied to discharge our liability to the extent required by the relevant law.
- (n) Where we or a sub-custodian have appointed a securities depository on your behalf to hold your Assets, the securities depository may hold a security interest or lien over your financial instruments.
- (o) Before investing in any jurisdiction, you should independently satisfy yourself that you understand and appreciate the significance of the relevant risks, and that such an approach is suitable for you (including without limitation, jurisdictions outside the European Economic Area).
- (p) When your Assets are held in a Third Country Jurisdiction they may be subject to the law of that jurisdiction and to different settlement and regulatory requirements. Your rights relating to those financial instruments may differ accordingly and you may not receive the same level of protection that you would otherwise have.
- (q) We will direct that your Assets, when held with a third party, are identifiable separately from the assets belonging to us or to that third party, by means of differently titled accounts on the books of the third party or other equivalent measures that achieve the same level of protection. Where your Assets are held in a Third Country Jurisdiction, the applicable law of that jurisdiction may prevent us from complying with the requirements under Applicable Regulations to ensure that any client financial instruments deposited with a third party are identifiable separately from the financial instruments belonging to us and from financial instruments belonging to that third party. You should inform us if you do not wish to hold your Assets in any particular jurisdiction.
- (r) Where such applicable law prevents us from complying with such requirements, there is a risk that on our insolvency or that of the third party, your assets would not be separately identifiable and may therefore be available to our creditors of those of the third party. In the event that a valid order was served on the sub-custodian seeking to freeze, attach or otherwise restrict assets belonging to us, a court in such jurisdiction may treat your financial instruments as assets belonging to us and open to seizure or arrest and your beneficial interest may not be recognised or upheld.
- (s) If we are required to settle a delivery of Assets on your behalf but on the relevant settlement date there are, or we consider there will be, insufficient Assets available, we may (but are not obliged to), if we consider it appropriate and reasonably practicable to do so, delay settlement until such time as you have sufficient Assets available for delivery, or buy on your behalf the securities and/or assets that are the subject of such delivery at your cost and expenses. In the case of capital calls for private equity funds, we may inform the relevant fund that you are unable to satisfy the capital call and may provide your details to the relevant fund so that they may contact you directly.
- (t) Any transit of Assets will be handled in accordance with our usual practice but for your account and risk.
- (u) Unless you instruct us otherwise:
 - (i) we shall not be required to forward any circular, announcement, proxy, annual report, notice or other financial statement relating to the Assets we receive or to give you notice of such receipt;
 - (ii) we shall not be required to inform you of the dates on which any shareholders’ or other meetings of the companies whose securities we hold for your account will be held, nor of the items on the agendas of such meetings, nor of any notices, proxies or proxy soliciting materials in relation to such securities;

- (iii) we shall not be required to attend any shareholders' or other meetings or to take any action with respect to the Assets (including exercising any voting rights). Notwithstanding the foregoing (and in the absence of any instructions to the contrary) we may, in our sole discretion, elect to attend any such meetings or take any such action with respect to the Assets;
 - (iv) we are not responsible for monitoring or acting upon any shareholder or other communications or offers made in respect of any Assets and we are not liable for any Loss arising directly or indirectly in consequence of any delayed transmission of communications to or from you or for any inadvertent failure to forward any such communications; and
 - (v) we shall claim all amounts in respect of interest or dividends pertaining to the Assets in custody which are known to us to be payable. Any dividends, interest payments and other entitlements we receive in relation to the Assets will be credited to your account after deduction of any taxes, costs and fees (if any), but we shall not be responsible for claiming any other distribution or entitlement or benefit you may have on your behalf, or for taking up or exercising any conversion rights, subscription rights or other rights of any nature, dealing with take-over or other offers or capital re-organisations. We may execute in your name whenever we deem it appropriate such documents and other certificates as may be required to obtain the payment of income from the Assets or the sale thereof.
- (w) You authorise us, and we may (but are not obliged to) exercise the following powers (whether directly or by or through our Agents and/or Nominees) in our discretion without prior reference or notice to you:
- (i) to surrender any Assets against receipt of monies payable at maturity or on redemption if called prior to maturity or against other Assets delivered upon any exchange of Assets;

- (ii) where monies are payable in respect of any of the Assets in more than one currency, to collect them in such currency as may be permissible by Applicable Regulations and as we may in our discretion determine;
- (iii) where monies are payable in respect of any of the Assets in any currency, to carry out any foreign exchange transaction at our or our Agents' prevailing rates to convert such foreign currency to the currency of the Account and to make any necessary withholding or deduction as may be required by Applicable Regulations;
- (iv) to sell, execute, exchange or exercise any right, benefit or option whatsoever relating to or accruing in respect of any of the Assets on your behalf in any way or manner and on such terms as we think fit in our discretion;
- (v) to consolidate any odd lots of securities held by you with securities of other clients in order to qualify for any rights offered in respect of a specified block of securities and at our discretion to take up, call for, receive, hold and sell any shares or rights accruing by reason of such consolidation;
- (vi) to purchase additional securities or sell odd lots of securities in order to qualify for or maximise the benefit of any rights, options or distribution offered or made in connection with the securities;
- (vii) to exchange any of the securities in interim or temporary form for securities in definitive form and (where applicable) to deliver the physical scrips to central depository or other similar system set up for the purpose of scripless trading;
- (viii) at our discretion, to take up, call for, receive, hold, sell, or dispose of fractional shares which may accrue from the holding of the securities for our own account and benefit;
- (ix) to charge you a gross commission (including any commission charged by an Agent) for any of the above services provided that we shall not be liable in any way whatsoever for any act, default, omission or failure of any Agent;
- (x) in the case of scripless securities, to deposit the Assets with, and hold the Assets through, any centralised securities depository, clearing house or securities depository agencies on such terms as such systems customarily operate, and to effect the purchase or sale or transfer of such securities through your account or sub-account (if any) maintained with any centralised securities depository or other similar system set up for the purpose of scripless trading; and/or

- (xi) to take any action as we think fit including:
 - A. any act which we determine to be necessary to preserve the integrity of the Assets and/or to protect your interests and our interests;
 - B. the execution of any declarations or certificates of ownership or other documents; and/or
 - C. splitting of the shares into marketable lots to enable delivery of shares and share certificates.
- (x) Upon termination of these custody services, you shall arrange for the transfer of Assets from us to you or some other person designated by you in writing. If you fail to complete such arrangements, we (at your cost) may transfer or redeem all of your Assets held in such manner as we may think fit and we are irrevocably authorised to give necessary instructions to third parties on your behalf to execute documents and to do all such other things as we shall deem fit in our discretion, without any liability for any costs, expenses, losses or damages of whatsoever nature incurred or suffered by you and pay the realisation proceeds to you. We may at our discretion terminate the custody services at any time, whereupon the foregoing provisions shall apply.
- (y) Any Assets held by you or the Nominee as custodian shall be subject to our rights of lien and set-off as set out in this Service Agreement, and may also be subject to other similar rights or security interests of ours under other agreements between us. You agree and acknowledge that any Nominee, and any other nominee, sub-custodian or agent, may also claim a lien or security interest over any Assets held by it;
- (z) We will not pay any interest to you on any Assets held in custody regardless of the rate of interest (if any) paid by any Nominee at which such Assets may be deposited or held. We may in our discretion, from time to time, pay interest to you but any such payment shall not oblige us to continue making such payments on any other occasion.
- (aa) No Assets may be deposited with us for custody unless they are beneficially owned by you and registered in your name, or where you are acting as a trustee, in the name of the beneficial owners of the trust as indicated in the Account Application or accompanied by such transfer documents and/or instructions as we may require to transfer the beneficial ownership to you.
- (bb) Where any of the Assets are, or are likely to become subject to any dispute, you shall inform us immediately in writing and provide us with such information concerning the dispute or potential dispute as we may require. We may in our sole discretion (notwithstanding any failure by you to provide notice of the dispute or potential dispute):
 - (i) refuse to act on any instructions in respect of any or all of the Assets (whether the relevant Assets are the subject of the dispute or potential dispute or otherwise), and/or
 - (ii) suspend any or all of your Account(s), without notice to you (unless otherwise required by the Applicable Regulations) and for such duration as we in our discretion may decide, and we shall not be liable for any Loss in connection therewith.
- (cc) Where you have instructed us to open additional sub-accounts for you, we reserve the right not to do so in our discretion and to transfer Assets between such sub-accounts.
- (dd) Unless you instruct otherwise, we may insure shipments of Assets at your expense.
- (ee) Pursuant to the terms of any relevant agreement that we may enter into with you, we may be authorised to enter into securities financing transactions in relation to the financial instruments which we hold on your behalf. Where you provide financial instruments under a securities financing transaction, you may not necessarily have the right to any specific financial instruments but will instead be entitled subject to any applicable laws, rules and regulations and the provisions of the relevant agreement, to the transfer or delivery of an amount of financial instruments of the same description and of the same amount.
- (ff) Those financial instruments will not be held in accordance with client asset rules and your ability to exercise rights (such as voting rights, corporate events and receipt of payments) attaching to the financial instruments may also be limited. The tax treatment that would have otherwise applied in relation to the financial instruments or any payments may differ. Further, your protections in the event of the entry into insolvency or resolution of the counterparty to the transaction may not be available.

- (gg) To the extent we enter into securities financing transactions in relation to financial instruments held by us on your behalf, or we use such financial instruments for our own account or for the account of another client, such financial instruments shall be returned in accordance with the terms of the relevant agreement.
- (hh) You may contact your relationship manager for further information relating to the custodian services we provided to you from time to time.
- (ii) In the event that you enter into a transaction as a receiving party, and the transaction remains undelivered and/or unsettled after the specified period as stipulated by the applicable laws, rules and regulations, we may, to the extent required by the applicable laws, rules and regulations, and you authorise us to (but we are not obliged to, unless required by the applicable laws, rules and regulations) buy such securities or assets that are the subject of delivery to complete the settlement of such transaction. In connection with the above and to the extent permissible by the relevant laws, rules and regulations, the Bank may receive cash penalty and/or cash compensation from relevant parties.

30 Fiduciary placement

- (a) We may, on your instructions, effect fiduciary placements (each, a “Placement”) on your behalf from time to time with any other office, branch or subsidiary of Deutsche Bank AG worldwide or any other financial institution (the “Placement Bank”), in our name or in the name of our nominee but for your account and risk. You agree that where we do not receive the full amounts due from the Placement Bank relating to the Placement, our sole duty is to assign to you any claim we may be entitled to against the Placement Bank relating to the Placement (subject always to our rights arising from any security interest granted by you to us over your cash and/or Assets including the Placement).

- (b) We may choose to effect the Placement on such terms and conditions as we see fit save that you must provide us with clear and unequivocal instructions with regards to the Placement Bank, the principal amount and tenor of the Placement which you intend to place with the Placement Bank, and agree with us as to the commission (the “Commission”) payable by you.
- (c) You authorise us to debit from your Account(s) the Commission, all taxes thereon and any ancillary costs charged to us by third parties.

31 Time deposits

- (a) You agree that your time deposits including interest thereof shall be renewed for the same currency for the same tenor at the prevailing interest rates as determined by us in the event that you have not provided any instructions with respect to the said time deposits at least two (2) Business Days prior to the relevant maturity dates (or such other time period as we may specify in writing).
- (b) Withdrawal instructions must be received by us by no later than two (2) Business Days prior to the relevant maturity dates of your time deposit or such other time as may be stipulated by us from time to time. If such an instruction is duly received by us, repayment of the principal and any interest due shall be made into your Account.
- (c) If, in our absolute discretion, we consent to the early withdrawal or termination of a time deposit, we reserve the right to require you to forfeit any interest earned and to charge a fee as compensation for the loss of use of such funds and to cover administrative and other costs to effect or process the early withdrawal or termination.
- (d) Unless otherwise stated, interest earned on time deposits placed with us shall accrue on a daily basis and will be credited to your Account on maturity.
- (e) You agree that when you instruct and authorize us to effect a “Green” deposit (“Green Deposit”) from time to time, the Green Deposit effected shall be governed by the terms and conditions of the provisions governing time deposits set out herein, save as supplemented, amended and superseded to such extent as follows:-
 - (i) that we will utilise the Green Deposit on a reasonable efforts’ basis to finance Deutsche Bank AG’s Green Asset Pool, as described in the Deutsche Bank Green

Financing Framework (see www.db.com/ir/en/green-bond.htm), as may updated from time to time;

- (ii) you agree and understand that we have the absolute discretion to utilise the Green Deposit in such way we deem fit and that the Green Deposit may not be used to finance such Eligible Green Assets as described in the Deutsche Bank Green Financing Framework;
- (iii) you agree and understand that you are not allowed to make a full or partial withdrawal of the Green Deposit prior to its maturity and that there is no early withdrawal or termination of the Green Deposit. If in our absolute discretion, we consent to the early withdrawal or termination of the Green Deposit, any interest earned will be forfeited and fees will be chargeable for the loss of use of such funds and to cover administrative and other costs for effecting or processing the early withdrawal or termination; and
- (iv) you understand that upon maturity of the Green Deposit, your entire principal and interest amount will not be automatically renewed or rolled over.

32 Discretionary management

- (a) Where you have applied for our discretionary management service and if applicable, instructed us to apply certain investment restrictions and limits ("Investment Restrictions"), we may open an investment account for you ("Investment Account") designated as a discretionary account and subject to paragraph (g) below, implement such procedures to comply with any Investment Restrictions.
- (b) You appoint us as the investment manager of all your assets (including cash balances, securities and any other property or investment in replacement or substitution of or in addition to the assets) held in the Investment Account ("Investments"). You agree that we may engage any third party including our Affiliates to manage part or all of the Investments. Investments may be made in our name but for your account in financial products offered by us, our Affiliates or any third party. Please also refer to Clause 12 above.
- (c) To enable us to carry out a suitability assessment, we require certain information from you, including information about your personal and financial circumstances, your investment experience and your investment objectives on an overall basis as well as any investment objectives that you may have for an Investment Account. Your relationship manager will meet with you to obtain this information. The more complex, illiquid and sophisticated the investments and services you are interested in, the more extensive and detailed the information we may need to collect as part of our suitability assessment.
- (d) You agree to provide complete and accurate information to enable us to carry out a suitability assessment. If, in our reasonable opinion, you have not provided us with the necessary information, we may be unable to provide you with our discretionary investment management services.
- (e) You agree to notify us promptly in writing of any information that may be relevant to our investment plan for the Investment Account or to your suitability profile which we have previously compiled on you and, in particular, any material changes in your personal and financial circumstances, dependents or investment objectives and any other matters that you believe may be relevant to your suitability assessment. If in our reasonable opinion, you have not notified us of any material changes in the above information, we may suspend the discretionary investment management services or take any other actions which we consider to be appropriate.
- (f) We shall manage Investments at our full discretion under your current mandate on record without obtaining prior instructions from you. For this purpose we may (but are not obliged to) invest, reinvest and generally deal with Investments by any means, including but not limited to carrying out changes of currency, placing and withdrawing amounts to and from bank deposits, purchasing, selling, converting and exchanging shares, bonds, notes, debentures, loss absorption products (including but not limited to debt instruments with contingent write-down or conversion features and investment products/collective investment schemes that invest mainly in, or whose returns are closely linked to the performance of loss absorption instruments), warrants, any other securities, units or interests in collective investment schemes (including but not limited to mutual funds, hedge funds, investment funds, alternative investment funds, collective investment vehicles of Deutsche Bank Group or third party providers, or as the case may be, in only one diversified investment fund or sub-fund of Deutsche Bank Group), certificates of deposit, currencies and precious metals, and trade in options, futures and forward contracts and derivatives and any other financial instruments which may be deemed to be complex in nature by Applicable Regulations as we may decide, in any market we may consider appropriate. We may also carry out all other acts which appear to us to be proper or necessary for the management of Investments and preventing or hedging any Loss. Unless you inform us otherwise, we may invest in all types of financial instruments and undertake all types of transactions. You are aware that the risks described in our Risk Disclosure Statement (Annex 2) may arise with respect to the Investments in the mandate.

- (g) Without prejudice to the foregoing, you acknowledge and agree that we will not be obliged to monitor any Investment Restrictions applied to an Investment Account (i) in the case of a new Investment Account, the earlier of (A) 90 days after the funding of the Investment Account; and (B) the full implementation of the applicable investment strategy for that relevant Investment Account and (ii) in the case of an existing Investment Account, upon the full implementation of any change to the investment strategy/ Investment Restriction to that Investment Account, as the case may be.
- (h) Our management services may be terminated by us by giving you reasonable notice.
- (i) [Deleted]
- (j) When we receive your termination notice, we may liquidate Investments and remit all monies when available in accordance with your instructions. Alternatively, we may roll over deposits or leave Investments in the state they may be at the time we receive the termination notice. In line with the above, the Private Banking Industry Group ("PBIG") has also amended the 'Private Banking in Singapore – Code of Conduct' to include a new addendum setting out guidance on Industry Sound Practices (ISP) relating to the above, with an objective of safeguarding the industry from being used as a platform to harbour proceeds from serious tax crimes, or a conduit to disguise such funds. These supersede HKMA’s prior Guidelines on Prevention of Money Laundering. The requirements relate to the following:

- (i) remittance messages in respect of remittances must now contain an address of the customer (which may be a correspondence address) or, failing this, the customer’s date and place of birth or the number of a government issued identity document the customer holds (“Unique ID No.”). This will be seen by the beneficiary bank and may be made available to other parties;
- (ii) flexibility is given to banks not to include this information in remittance messages:
 - A. where the remittance is less than HK$8,000 or equivalent; or
 - B. in the case of a domestic remittance transaction;
- (iii) but in both cases referred to in paragraph (ii):
 - A. banks are encouraged to include the information in remittance messages; and
 - B. the information must be recorded and retained by the bank and may be required to be made available to the beneficiary bank or other appropriate authorities.

The purpose of the requirements is to enable banks and other relevant authorities to combat money laundering and terrorism financing. All banks in Hong Kong are expected to comply with the Ordinance and Guidelines issued by the HKMA.

For operational efficiency, the Bank has chosen to include in all remittance messages the address of the relevant customer effecting the remittance. Therefore, without prejudice to any rights the Bank may have, please note that effective from 1 June 2007, being the date when the predecessor requirements in the HKMA Guidelines in Prevention of Money Laundering took effect, when initiating a remittance transaction, you will be deemed to have consented to the disclosure of your mailing address as reflected in our records in the relevant remittance message in compliance with the Ordinance and/or Guidelines applicable at the material time.

In the event that your mailing address on record is a post office box address or should you choose to have your correspondence held by the Bank, your Unique ID No. will be provided in the remittance message by default.

Under the Guidelines, the Bank may exercise their discretion to verify the information accompanying the payment and, accordingly, you may be requested to provide updated proof of the address or Unique ID.

Annex 2

Risk Disclosure Statement For all types of accounts

Introduction

The objective of this Risk Disclosure Statement (this “Statement”) is to provide you with a brief outline of some of the risks associated with entering into transactions involving equities, foreign exchange, precious metals, bonds, commodities, interest rates, securities, market indices, spot, forward contracts, swaps, futures, options and other derivatives transactions including any structured products incorporating one or more of the above or any other financial transactions (the “Transactions”).

This Statement does not explain all the risks and other significant aspects of investing or entering into Transactions. Such risks can be substantial. Before entering into any Transaction, you should therefore be satisfied that you fully understand the precise nature of the Transaction, how it actually works, the extent of your exposure to risks and the potential losses that you could incur. You should also read the relevant product-specific literature. This Statement also does not deal with issues of taxation or other legal consequences pertaining to any Transactions which you enter into.

You should consult your advisors and carefully consider whether the Transaction is appropriate for you in light of your financial circumstances. Please be aware that to the extent permissible under Applicable Regulations, you bear all risks of the Transactions and the Bank is not responsible for any losses arising from the Transactions. By entering into a Transaction with us, you confirm you have read and understood the risks set out here and the term sheets and accompanying documents relating to the Transaction. You accept all risks and any resulting losses.

When we undertake a Transaction for you, we or some other person connected with us may have a material interest, relationship or arrangement in the Transaction and may be dealing as principal or as agent for the account of another customer.

We may (but need not) give advice or make recommendations.

Part I. General risk disclosures

1 Leveraging risks

Leveraging risk results from posting only a percentage of the notional amount as Collateral (please see “Margin Requirements” for definition). The degree of leverage and/or arbitrage obtained for a Transaction may work against as well as for you. The use of leverage and/or arbitrage may lead to large losses as well as gains. Such leveraging may be by way of a loan, trading on a margin, or embedded within an instrument such as a structured note or a swap transaction.

2 Currency risks

The profit or loss from a Transaction in a foreign currency will be affected by fluctuations in currency exchange rates when there is a need to convert the currency in which the Transaction is denominated to another currency.

3 Liquidity and market disruption risks

You may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position, to assess the value or to determine a fair price of a Transaction at certain times or under certain market conditions. This may also arise from the rules in certain markets. Some equity or debt securities and money market instruments (especially structured notes or customised products) may not be readily realisable or marketable. Market traders may not be prepared to deal in them, and proper information for determining their current value may not be available.

The normal pricing relationships between a derivative and the underlying asset may not exist in certain circumstances. The absence of an underlying reference price may make it difficult to judge “fair value”.

4 Credit and legal risks

If you enter into a Transaction where the counterparty or the issuer of a particular security or instrument is not the Bank, the Bank is not responsible for any default by such counterparty or issuer. Accordingly, you should satisfy yourself that the credit risk of such counterparty or issuer is acceptable to you. You should also familiarise yourself with the protection given to money or other property you deposit for domestic and foreign Transactions, especially in the event of the issuer, custodian or intermediary becoming insolvent or bankrupt. Local rules and regulations may govern the extent to which you may recover your money or property. In some jurisdictions, property specifically identifiable as your own will be pro-rated in the same manner as cash for distribution in an insolvency or bankruptcy if there is a shortfall.

5 Counterparty risks

On many exchanges, the performance of a Transaction by your broker (or the third party with whom he is dealing on your behalf) is “guaranteed” by the exchange or its clearing house. However, this guarantee is unlikely in most circumstances to cover you and may not protect you if your broker or another party defaults on its obligations to you.

The insolvency or default of your counterparty or broker or that of any other counterparties or brokers involved with your Transactions may lead to positions being liquidated or closed out without your consent. In certain circumstances, you may not get back the actual assets which you lodged as Collateral and you may have to accept any available payment in cash.

6 Settlement or issuer risk

Repayment of instruments held to maturity may be dependent on the financial ability of the issuer to do so and may further be subject to any intervening circumstances such as government action or legal inhibitions placed on the issuer or affecting the currency in which the instrument is denominated.

Instruments may be held or delivered for settlement to a custodian appointed in good faith by us or to its sub-custodians. Such persons are not under our control and we accept no liability for any default of any nature by such third party custodians.

7 Margin requirements

For Transactions on a margin basis, you are required to provide us with initial margin cover by pledging, transferring, assigning or charging assets acceptable to us ("Collateral") before entering into a Transaction. We will value the Collateral according to our prevailing practices from time to time. We may determine the required amount of initial margin at our discretion.

The amount of margin required varies with each type of transaction. We may change the margin required at any time and from time to time at our discretion, even after you have entered into the Transaction.

The margin cover may fall below the amount we require because of various reasons (such as book losses arising from mark-to-market valuation of outstanding Transactions, losses arising from closed-out Transactions, or a fall in the value of the Collateral).

If we determine that the margin cover is inadequate at any time, we may (amongst other things) ask you to provide additional Collateral (such amount may be substantial and may exceed your initial margin), realising all or part of the Collateral, and/or close-out or otherwise dealing with any or all outstanding Transactions as we think fit. You will be responsible for any shortfall if the Transactions are liquidated at a loss and the loss is more than the total value of the margin deposited.

Market movements of the underlying assets (for example, fluctuations in foreign exchange rates, interest rates, movements in commodities prices and securities prices and indices) cannot be predicted.

Even if the amount of the initial margin deposit may be small relative to the value of a Transaction, if the market moves against you, you may not only sustain a total loss of the initial margin deposit and any additional funds deposited to maintain your position, you may also incur further liability to us or other counterparty or sustain further losses.

8 "Stop-loss" orders

You may place a "stop-loss" order with us to close out certain open positions without further notice when the mark-to-market loss on such open positions exceeds pre-agreed levels. However, placing such orders may not limit your losses to the intended amounts as market conditions may prevent us from executing such orders.

9 Exchange traded instruments and electronic trading risks

Disruption of or changes in the normal market operation of exchanges may increase your risk of loss if it becomes difficult or impossible to close out your Transactions traded on such exchanges. For example, an exchange may have the discretion to suspend or limit trading of certain instruments under certain market conditions.

Electronic trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems and are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. System failure may result in your order not being executed according to your instructions or not being executed at all. Your ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the exchange.

10 Country risks

Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose you to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to rules which may offer different or diminished investor protection.

Any imposition by a country of exchange controls or other limitations or restrictions may cause payments to be made in the local currency instead of the original invested currency or may result in the inability to effect outward remittances of funds from such country, which can affect the value of your investment or your ability to enjoy its benefit.

11 Emerging markets risks

Emerging markets are markets in countries with moderate to low per capita national income, as defined by the World Bank. The risks involved in investing in financial instruments in or linked to emerging markets include (but are not limited to) sovereign risk, issuer risk, price risk, foreign exchange risk and liquidity risk. Investments in these markets may be highly risky as the markets are unpredictable and there may be inadequate regulations and safeguards available to investors.

12 Risks of client assets received or held outside Hong Kong and/or Singapore

Client assets received or held by the licensed or registered person outside Hong Kong and/or Singapore are subject to the applicable laws and regulations of the relevant overseas jurisdiction which may be different from the relevant laws in Singapore, the SFO and the rules made thereunder, respectively. Consequently, such client assets may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on client assets received or held in Hong Kong and/or Singapore.

13 Risk of providing an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties

If you provide us with an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties, it is important for you to promptly collect in person all contract notes and statements of your account and review them in detail to ensure that any anomalies or mistakes can be detected in a timely fashion.

Part II. Risks associated with specific investment

14 Options risks

An option is a right granted by a person (the seller or writer) to another (the buyer or holder) to buy (call option) or to sell (put option) a specified amount of an underlying asset at a predefined price (strike price) at or until a certain time (expiration date), in exchange for the payment of a premium. Among other Transactions, Transactions in options may involve a high degree of risk and may not be suitable for many members of the public. Before trading, you should calculate the extent to which the value of an option would have to increase for your position to become profitable, taking into account the premium paid and all Transaction costs. You must give us sufficient and timely instructions relating to the exercise or non-exercise of any options.

(a) General risks

Options may be granted on all kinds of assets and may be traded on-exchange or over-the-counter. The terms of an option may be standardised or may be custom tailored to meet the needs of the holder or the writer. There is generally no market available for such tailor-made options. In principle, they can be cancelled only by concluding a reverse transaction with the same counterparty and transactions cannot be assigned or transferred to a third party without the agreement of all parties. Warrants are options in securitised form.

Exercising an option results either in a cash settlement or in the buyer acquiring delivery of the underlying asset. The buyer of an option may offset its position by trading in the market or exercise the option or allow the option to expire. If the option is on a futures contract or leveraged foreign exchange transaction, for example, the buyer will acquire the position together with associated liabilities for margin.

Some options are described as “American-style”. These may be exercised on any trading day up to and including the expiration date. “European-style” options may be exercised only on the expiration date. There are other types of options and you should carefully review the term sheet or other documentation for any product to understand its structure.

During the life of an option, the writer must often provide margin cover (Collateral). Please see “Margin requirements” for risk related to margin. Certain exchanges in some jurisdictions permit deferred payment of the option premium, limiting the liability of the buyer to margin payments not exceeding the amount of the premium. The buyer is still subject to the risk of losing the premium and transaction costs. When the option is exercised or expires, the buyer is responsible for any unpaid premium outstanding at that time.

A call option is in-the-money if the current market value of the underlying asset is higher than the strike price. A put option is in-the-money if the current market value of the underlying asset is below the strike price. An option that is in-the-money is said to have an intrinsic value. If the current market value of the underlying asset and the strike price are the same, the option is at-the-money. An option may also be out-of-the-money. If purchased options expire out-of-the-money, you will suffer a total loss of your investment which will consist of the option premium paid plus Transaction costs. If you are contemplating purchasing deep-out-of-the-money options, you should be aware that, ordinarily, the chance of such options becoming profitable is remote.

The price of an option depends on its intrinsic value, and on its time value. The latter depends on a variety of factors, including the remaining life of the option and the volatility of the underlying asset. The time value of an option reflects the chance that it will be in-the-money.

In general, the value of a call option decreases and the value of a put option increases as the value of the underlying asset falls. The less an option is in-the-money, the larger the decrease in value.

This decrease also generally accelerates as the life of the option expires, and is proportionally larger than the decrease in value of the underlying asset. However, in certain cases, the value of an option may decrease even if the value of the underlying asset remains unchanged or moves in favour of the buyer.

The risks associated with writing an option are generally greater than buying an option. If the option is covered by a corresponding position in the underlying asset, the risk may be reduced. Conversely, if the option is uncovered, then the possible loss may be unlimited.

Certain exchanges in some jurisdictions permit deferred payment of the option premium, exposing the purchaser to liability for margin payments not exceeding the amount of the premium. The purchaser is still subject to the risk of losing the premium and transaction costs.

When the option is exercised or expires, the purchaser is responsible for any unpaid premium outstanding at that time.

(b) Risks of buying options

The premium paid for the option by the option buyer is not refundable. The option buyer would suffer a loss as a result of a fall in the market price of the underlying asset, or from the option expiring without the option buyer instructing the Bank to exercise the option. Even if the value of the underlying asset remains constant or performs favourably, an option may still decline in value over time since its value is partly dependent on its remaining tenure prior to its expiry date.

(c) Risks of selling covered call options

The seller of a covered call option sells the call option for an underlying asset which he already has. If the option buyer exercises the option, the option seller does not profit from the increase in price of the underlying asset in excess of the exercise price. Thus the option seller loses the opportunity to make a profit. If the option buyer does not exercise the call option, the option seller bears the risk of a fall in the price of the underlying asset which is reduced only by the premium received.

(d) Risks of selling uncovered call options

The seller of an uncovered call option sells the call option without already having the underlying asset in the event it has to be delivered. The seller of an uncovered call option must deposit a security margin with the Bank. The security margin increases if the price of the underlying asset increases. The option seller takes the risk of providing additional Collateral to the Bank at any time to meet higher margin demands. If the option buyer exercises the call option, the option seller bears the risk of buying the underlying asset for delivery at a market price higher than the exercise price. Thus the option seller may incur an unlimited loss since there is no limit to the amount by which the market price of the underlying asset may exceed the exercise price. This loss is reduced only by the premium received.

(e) Risks of selling put options

The seller of a put option must deposit a security margin with the Bank. The security margin increases if the price of the underlying asset falls. The option seller takes the risk of providing additional Collateral to the Bank at any time to meet higher margin demands. If the option buyer exercises the put option, the option seller bears the risk of buying the underlying asset from the option buyer at a price higher than its market price. Thus the option seller's loss will be the difference between the market price of the underlying asset and the exercise price, less the premium received. If the option seller wishes to immediately resell the underlying asset, it may be difficult to find a buyer, or a sale may be possible only at a loss. If the option buyer does not exercise the put option before its expiry date, the security margin provided by the option seller is released and he no longer risks having to buy the underlying asset at a price higher than the market price. The option seller retains the premium received.

The writer of options must take into account the fact that the option may be exercised in very unfavourable, high-loss market situations in which physical delivery obligations may be very difficult or very costly to fulfil. It may sometimes even be impossible to acquire the necessary underlying asset. This risk is particularly high in the case of American-style options because the option can be exercised at any time within the exercise period.

15 Forward and futures trading risks

Forwards and futures entail the obligation to deliver or take delivery on a specified expiration date of a defined quantity of an underlying asset at a price agreed on the contract date. Futures are standardised contracts traded on-exchange. Forwards are traded over-the-counter. Forwards and futures may involve high degrees of risk and may not be suitable for many members of the public.

When buying or selling an underlying asset by way of a futures or forward contract, a specified initial margin must often be supplied at the beginning of the contract. This is usually a percentage of the total value of the contract. Additional margin may have to be provided periodically during the life of the contract. This will correspond to the notional profit or loss arising from any change in value in the contract or the underlying asset.

The buyer of a forward contract must accept delivery of assets on a specific date at a pre-agreed price which may be higher than the prevailing market price of the assets (when market prices are falling). The seller of a forward contract must deliver assets on a specified date at a pre-agreed price which may be lower than the prevailing market price of the assets (when market prices are rising). In both cases, the loss at risk is the difference between the pre-agreed price and the market price of the underlying assets, and the difference may exceed the Collateral provided.

16 Other risks for futures and options

The risk of loss in trading futures contracts or options is substantial. In some circumstances, you may sustain losses in excess of your initial margin funds. Placing contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders, will not necessarily avoid loss.

Market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders. You may be called upon at short notice to deposit additional margin funds. If the required funds are not provided within the prescribed time, your position may be liquidated. You will remain liable for any resulting deficit in your account. You should therefore study and understand futures contracts and options before you trade and carefully consider whether such trading is suitable in the light of your own financial position and investment objectives. If you trade options you should inform yourself of exercise and expiration procedures and your rights and obligations upon exercise or expiry.

This brief Statement does not disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of trading in futures and options. In light of the risks, you should undertake such transactions only if you understand the nature of the contracts (and contractual relationships) into which you are entering and the extent of your exposure to risk. Trading in futures and options is not suitable for many members of the public. You should carefully consider whether trading is appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances.

(a) Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing" (futures trading)

Transactions in futures carry a high degree of risk. The amount of initial margin is small relative to the value of the futures contract so that transactions are "leveraged" or "geared". A relatively small market movement will have a proportionately larger impact on the funds you have deposited or will have to deposit: this may work against you as well as for you. You may sustain a total loss of initial margin funds and any additional funds deposited with us to maintain your position. If the market moves against your position or margin levels are increased, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional funds on short notice to maintain your position. If you fail to comply with a request for additional funds within the time prescribed, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you will be liable for any resulting deficit.

(b) Risk-reducing orders or strategies (futures trading)

The placing of certain orders (e.g. "stop-loss" orders, or "stop-limit" orders) which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective because market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders. Strategies using combinations of positions, such as "spread" and "straddle" positions may be as risky as taking simple "long" or "short" positions.

(c) Variable degree of risk (options trading)

Transactions in options carry a high degree of risk. Purchasers and sellers of options should familiarise themselves with the type of option (i.e. put or call) which they contemplate trading and the associated risks. You should calculate the extent to which the value of the options must increase for your position to become profitable, taking into account the premium and all Transaction costs.

The purchaser of options may offset or exercise the options or allow the options to expire. The exercise of an option results either in a cash settlement or in the purchaser acquiring or delivering the underlying interest. If the option is on a futures contract, the purchaser will acquire a futures position with associated liabilities for margin (see the section on futures trading above). If the purchased options expire worthless, you will suffer a total loss of your investment which will consist of the option premium plus Transaction costs. If you are contemplating purchasing deep-out-of-the-money options, you should be aware that the chance of such options becoming profitable ordinarily is remote.

Selling (“writing” or “granting”) an option generally entails considerably greater risk than purchasing options. Although the premium received by the seller is fixed, the seller may sustain a loss well in excess of that amount.

The seller will be liable for additional margin to maintain the position if the market moves unfavourably. The seller will also be exposed to the risk of the purchaser exercising the option and the seller will be obligated to either settle the option in cash or to acquire or deliver the underlying interest. If the option is on a futures contract, the seller will acquire a position in a futures contract with associated liabilities for margin (see the section on futures trading above). If the option is “covered” by the seller holding a corresponding position in the underlying interest or a futures contract or another option, the risk may be reduced. If the option is not covered, the risk of loss can be unlimited.

Certain exchanges in some jurisdictions permit deferred payment of the option premium, exposing the purchaser to liability for margin payments not exceeding the amount of the premium. The purchaser is still subject to the risk of losing the premium and transaction costs. When the option is exercised or expires, the purchaser is responsible for any unpaid premium outstanding at that time.

Additional risks common to futures and options

(d) Terms and conditions of contracts

You should ask us about the terms and conditions of the specific futures or options which you are trading and associated obligations (e.g. the circumstances under which you may become obliged to make or take delivery of the underlying interest of a futures contract and, in respect of options, expiration dates and restrictions on the time for exercise). Under certain circumstances the specifications of outstanding contracts

(including the exercise price of an option) may be modified by the exchange or clearing house to reflect changes in the underlying interest.

(e) Suspension or restriction of trading pricing relationships

Market conditions (e.g. illiquidity) and/or the operation of the rules of certain markets (e.g. the suspension of trading in any contract or contract month because of price limits or “circuit breakers”) may increase the risk of loss by making it difficult or impossible to effect transactions or liquidate/offset positions. If you have sold options, this may increase the risk of loss.

Further, normal pricing relationships between the underlying interest and the futures, and the underlying interest and the option may not exist. This can occur when, for example, the futures contract underlying the option is subject to price limits while the option is not. The absence of an underlying reference price may make it difficult to judge “fair value”.

(f) Deposited cash and property

You should familiarise yourself with the protections given to money or other property you deposit for domestic and foreign Transactions particularly in the event of insolvency or bankruptcy of the firm you have deposited money or other property. The extent to which you may recover your money or property may be governed by specific legislation or local rules. In some jurisdictions, property which had been specifically identifiable as your own will be pro-rated in the same manner as cash for purposes of distribution in the event of a shortfall.

(g) Commission and other charges

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all commission, fees and other charges for which you will be liable. These charges will affect your net profit (if any) or increase your loss.

(h) Transactions in other jurisdictions

Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose investors to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation which may offer different or diminished investor protection. Before you trade, you should enquire about any rules relevant to the particular Transactions. Your local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where Transactions have been effected. You should ask us for details about the type of redress available in both your home jurisdiction and other relevant jurisdictions before starting to trade.

(i) Currency risks

The profit or loss in Transactions in foreign currency denominated contracts (whether they are traded in your own or another jurisdiction) will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.

(j) Trading facilities

Electronic trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. Your ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the system provider, the market, the clearing house and/or participant firms. Such limits may vary: you should ask us for details in this respect.

(k) Electronic trading

Trading on an electronic trading system may differ from trading on other electronic trading systems. If you undertake Transactions on an electronic trading system you will be exposed to risks associated with the system including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any system failure may be that your order is either not executed according to your instructions or is not executed at all.

(l) Off-exchange transactions

In some jurisdictions, and only then in restricted circumstances, firms are permitted to effect off-exchange transactions. We may be acting as your counterparty. It may be difficult or impossible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value, to determine a fair price or to assess the exposure to risk. For these reasons, these transactions may involve increased risks. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime. Before you undertake such transactions you should familiarise yourself with applicable rules and attendant risks.

17 Swap risks

A swap transaction involves the obligation to exchange different assets or payment flows. For example, an interest rate swap is an agreement between two parties to make reciprocal payments of interest over a specific period of time. The payments are determined by reference to a notional principal amount and fixed or floating rates of interest. You may be a receiver of a fixed rate and payer of a floating rate or vice versa. In either case, movements in the referenced rates may significantly impact your cash flow as well as the cost of unwinding the swap position. If you are receiving a fixed interest rate and paying a floating interest rate, you will gain if interest rates generally remain stable or fall. In such a case, the floating interest rate you pay will be less than the fixed interest rate you receive. Conversely, you may suffer a loss if interest rates increase rapidly so that the floating interest rate you pay is greater than the fixed interest rate you receive.

18 Interest rate swaps risks

An interest rate swap is an agreement between two parties to make reciprocal payments over a specified period time. The payments are determined by reference to a notional principal amount and fixed or floating rate(s) of interest. Floating rates are typically based on some published index of market rates.

You may be a receiver of fixed rate interest and payer of floating rate interest, or vice versa. In either case, movements in the referenced rate could have a significant impact on your cash flow as well as on the cost of unwinding the swap position.

For uncovered contracts, there is an unlimited interest rate risk, computed on the full amount(s) contracted.

19 Hedge fund risks

Generally a hedge fund (a "Fund") is a pooled investment vehicle that aims to achieve an absolute return, allows the manager to be active on both the "long" and "short" sides of the market, and pays the manager performance-based fees.

Some Funds can accept high levels of investment risk. Funds may have a free choice of investment categories, markets and trading strategies. They may carry out short sales or obtain significant leveraging by investing borrowed capital. There may be little public information available relating to the Fund. The Fund may use investment strategies that are highly complex and difficult to understand. A change in a Fund's investment strategy may significantly increase the level of risk, which may be easily overlooked by investors.

A Fund may require a high minimum investment amount.

Funds have variable liquidity and tradeability, and may have limited subscription and redemption rights with lengthy notice periods (e.g. fund issues and redemptions are often allowed only on a monthly, quarterly or annual basis). Fixed holding periods are common, and liquidations may stretch out over a period of years; as the units/shares in the Fund are not listed in any market, it may be difficult to find a market price for the units/shares at any given time. The Fund may involuntarily redeem any or all of a holder's units/shares or only permit redemption of the units/shares at less than their fair value.

Many non-traditional Funds are established in "offshore" jurisdictions, and are subject to less stringent laws and supervision, which in turn provides weaker investor protection. There is no assurance that an investor's legal rights will be enforceable. There may be other risks associated with weaker regulation of such Funds; for example, the Fund may have poor or unsuitable operating systems and checking procedures.

The underlying investments of a Fund may take countless forms. Hence, it is not possible to specify all the detailed risks in each particular case. The Fund may make particularly risky investments or investment that are subject to legal or other restriction on transfer or for which no ready market exists.

Where a subscription is sent directly to an investment vehicle or a third party, a considerable period of time may elapse between the dispatch of funds and the attribution of the holding to us. In general we have no responsibility.

Such investments require the complete delegation of powers to third parties outside the Bank, so that the latter has no means of controlling or tracking their management activities.

The value of the investments is calculated on the basis of information supplied by third parties which we are not in a position to verify.

The structure and operation of a Fund usually involve conflicts of interest. The investment adviser, clearing broker and currency dealer may be related and controlled (directly or indirectly) by the Bank. There may be conflicts of interest between the investment adviser's role in managing customer accounts and the investment and trading activities and business operations of the Bank. The Fund may pay the investment adviser a performance-based fee which may create an incentive for the investment adviser to undertake riskier or more speculative investment strategies or to use sub-advisers with riskier or more speculative investment styles.

20 Structured deposits

Unlike traditional deposits, structured deposits have an investment element and returns may vary.

You may wish to seek advice from an independent financial adviser before making a commitment to purchase this product. In the event that you choose not to seek advice from an independent financial adviser, you should carefully consider whether this product is suitable for you.

Structured deposits are not insured deposits for the purposes of the Deposit Insurance and Policy Owners' Protection Schemes Act 2011 of Singapore.

We are granted exemption from participating as a member of the DPS under the DPS Ordinance and any deposits placed with us will not, to any extent, be protected by the DPS. Please also refer to the Service Agreement for further details.

If a structured deposit is not held to maturity, you may lose some or all of the principal amount invested. You should therefore not enter into a structured deposit unless you are able to hold it to maturity.

21 Dual currency investments

By entering into a dual currency investment, you are giving the Bank, as the issuer of the product, an option to repay you at a future date in either the base currency or an alternate currency that is different from the currency in which your initial investment was made, regardless of whether you wish to be repaid in this currency at that time. Part or all of the interest earned on the dual currency investment represents the premium on this option.

Dual currency investments are subject to foreign exchange fluctuations which may affect the return of your investment. Exchange controls may also be applicable to the currencies your investment is linked to. You may incur a loss on your principal amount in comparison with the amount in the base currency initially invested.

You may wish to seek advice from an independent financial adviser before making a commitment to enter into a dual currency investment. In the event that you choose not to seek advice from an independent financial adviser, you should carefully consider whether this product is suitable for you.

If the principal amount of a dual currency Investment is withdrawn before its maturity date, we may deduct such amount as it determines is required to reimburse us for any costs, losses or expenses (including any funding costs and the costs of closing out any Transactions hedging our position in relation to the deposit) which we may incur as a result of the early withdrawal.

If a dual currency investment is not held to maturity, you may lose some or all of the principal amount invested. You should therefore not enter into a dual currency investment unless you are able to hold it to maturity.

Dual currency investments are not insured deposits for the purposes of the Deposit Insurance and Policy Owners' Protection Schemes Act 2011 of Singapore.

We are granted exemption from participating as a member of the DPS under the DPS Ordinance and any deposits placed with us will not, to any extent, be protected by the DPS. Please also refer to the Service Agreement for further details.

22 Exchange traded funds

An exchange traded fund ("ETF") is an investment fund traded on exchange. Most of them are index tracking ETFs and some ETFs may track the performance of a group of assets such as commodities. Traditional index tracking ETFs gain exposure to the underlying index by investing in the constituent stocks or bonds of the underlying index. Another type of ETFs, commonly known as synthetic ETFs, invests in derivative instruments which are designed to replicate the performance of the index.

There are various strategies which are used to track indices. Some of the common strategies are: (a) investing in the constituent stocks or bonds that fully replicate the composition of the underlying index; (b) investing in a portfolio of securities featuring a high correlation with the underlying index but is not exactly the same as those in the index; or (c) investing in derivatives instruments, such as swaps and performance-linked notes, to replicate the underlying index performance.

Strategies adopted by an ETF will vary from manager to manager, and details on the exact strategy employed will be given in the prospectus of the ETF.

If the ETF invests in derivative instruments which are designed to replicate the performance of the index, then an investor in such an ETF will be exposed to the risk of both the manager of the ETF and issuer of such derivatives, in addition to the risks relating to the index. Investment strategy and full risk disclosure are set out in the prospectus of the ETF. You can obtain the prospectus of the ETF from your Relationship Manager.

The manager of the ETF will decide the strategy employed in seeking to reproduce the index, and whether it is linked to any derivative products.

ETFs may also be an underlying in derivative products. Please refer to the material on different kinds of derivative products for more information.

Key Risks relating to Exchange Traded Funds and Synthetic Exchange Traded Funds

(a) Replication strategy

For ETFs, there are various replication strategies adopted by managers, including without limitation, (x) investing in a portfolio of securities that fully replicates the composition of the underlying index; (y) investing in a portfolio of securities featuring a high correlation with the underlying index, but not exactly the same as those in the index; and (z) investing in financial derivative instruments, such as swaps and performance-linked notes to replicate the index performance. To understand the replication strategy adopted by the ETF manager of the underlying, please refer to the literature issued by the ETF manager, and its website, further information of which is available upon request.

(b) Embedded derivatives

Where a synthetic ETF invests in derivatives to replicate the index performance, risks are increased as the product then incorporate risks relating to derivatives products and gearing (if applicable).

(c) Liquidity risk

Listing or trading on an exchange does not in and of itself guarantee that a liquid market exists for an ETF. A higher liquidity risk is involved if a synthetic ETF involves derivatives which do not have an active secondary market. Wider bid-offer spreads in the price of derivatives may result in losses.

(d) Tracking error

Tracking errors refer to the disparity in performance between an ETF and its underlying index/assets. Tracking errors can arise due to factors such as the impact of transaction fees and expenses incurred to the ETF, changes in composition of the underlying index/assets, and the ETF manager's replication strategy.

A positive movement in the underlying may not translate into a gain for you under the investment. For investment where the underlying is an ETF, there may be a disparity between the performance of the synthetic ETF and the performance of the underlying index due to certain factors, including without limitation failure of the tracking strategy, currency differences, fees and expenses.

(e) Trading at a discount or premium for ETFs

Where the index/market that the ETF tracks is subject to restricted access, the efficiency in unit creation or redemption to keep the price of the ETF in line with its net asset value (NAV) may be disrupted, causing the ETF to trade at a higher premium or discount to its NAV. Investors who buy an ETF at a premium may not be able to recover the premium in the event of a termination.

(f) Market risk

Investors are exposed to the political, economic, currency and other risks related to the ETF's underlying index.

(g) Counterparty risk

Where a synthetic ETF invests in derivatives to replicate the index performance, investors are exposed to the credit risk of the counterparties who issue the derivatives, in addition to the risks relating to the index. Further potential contagion and concentration risks of the derivatives issuers should be taken into account (e.g. since derivative issuers are predominantly financial institutions, the failure of one derivative counterparty of a synthetic ETF may have a "knock-on" effect on other derivative counterparties of the synthetic ETF). Some synthetic ETFs have collateral to reduce the counterparty risk, but there may be a risk that the market value of the collateral has fallen substantially when the synthetic ETF seeks to realise the collateral.

23 Risks for investment products with Renminbi ("RMB") features

(a) RMB currency risk

RMB is currently not freely convertible and conversion of RMB through banks in Hong Kong is subject to certain restrictions.

For RMB investment products which are not denominated in RMB or with underlying investments which are not RMB-denominated, such investment products will be subject to multiple currency conversion costs involved in making investments and liquidating investments, as well as the RMB exchange rate fluctuations and bid/offer spreads when assets are sold to meet redemption requests and other capital requirements (e.g. settling operating expenses).

(b) Limited availability of underlying investments denominated in RMB

For RMB investment products that do not have access to invest directly in Mainland China, their available choice of underlying investments denominated in RMB outside Mainland China may be limited and such limitation may adversely affect the return and performance of the RMB investment products.

(c) Projected returns which are not guaranteed

For RMB investment products (e.g. RMB investment-linked assurance scheme) that are attached with a statement of illustrative return which are wholly or partly not guaranteed, the return (or part of the return, as the case may be) is not guaranteed and the assumptions on which the illustrations are based, including, e.g., any future bonus or dividend declaration, may not be accurate or subject to change.

(d) Long term commitment to investment products

For RMB investment products which involve a long period of investment (e.g. RMB investment-linked assurance scheme), if clients redeem their investment before the maturity date or during the lock-up period (if applicable), they may incur a significant loss of principal where the proceeds may be substantially lower than their invested amount. Clients are reminded of the early surrender/withdrawal fees and charges as well as the loss of bonuses (where applicable) as a result of redemption before the maturity date or during the lock-up period.

(e) Credit risk of counterparties

For RMB investment products that may invest in RMB debt instruments not supported by any collateral, such investment products are fully exposed to the credit risk of the relevant counterparties.

For RMB investment products that may invest in derivative instruments, counterparty risk may also arise as the default by the derivative issuers may adversely affect the performance of the RMB investment products and result in substantial loss.

(f) Interest rate risk

For RMB investment products which are, or may invest in, RMB debt instruments, such instruments are susceptible to interest rate fluctuations, which may adversely affect the return and performance of the RMB investment products.

(g) Liquidity risk

RMB investment products may suffer significant losses in liquidating the underlying investments, especially if such investments do not have an active secondary market and their prices have large bid/offer spreads.

(h) Possibility of not receiving RMB upon redemption

For RMB investment products with a significant portion of non-RMB denominated underlying investments, there is a possibility of not receiving the full amount in RMB upon redemption. This may be the case if the issuer is not able to obtain sufficient amount of RMB in a timely manner due to the exchange controls and restrictions applicable to the currency.

(i) Additional risk associated with leveraged trading

Prior to conducting leveraged trading of RMB investment products, clients are reminded to understand and accept the risks and the terms and conditions of the borrowing arrangement. Leveraging trading heightens the investment risk by magnifying prospective losses. Clients will be required to place additional margin deposits at short notice and that their Collateral may be liquidated without their consent. Clients are reminded to understand the risk that market conditions may make it impossible to execute contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" orders. In addition, clients are reminded of their exposure to interest rate risk, and in particular, their cost of borrowing may increase due to interest rate movements.

24 Bonds

Below is a list of key risk factors (but is not an exhaustive list) for bonds/debentures, please refer to the relevant prospectus for further details.

(a) Credit risk

Investors will assume full credit risk of the issuer and the guarantor (where applicable). A credit rating is not a recommendation or assurance as to the issuer and/or guarantor's creditworthiness or the risks, returns or suitability of the security.

Investors may suffer loss or the entire invested amount if the issuer fails to pay the interest or principal. For high-yield bonds, they are typically rated below investment grade and as such are often subject to higher risk of issuer default. For unrated bonds, there is no objective way to assess their credit risk.

(b) Interest rate risk

Bonds with a fixed rate coupon (even to be reset) are more susceptible to fluctuations in interest rates. As interest rates move upwards, the value of the bonds will generally fall. Furthermore, the longer the tenor of the bonds, the more sensitive it will be to interest rate changes.

(c) Liquidity risk

Some bonds may not have an active secondary market. There is no guarantee of liquidity provided by market makers that investors may face the risk of being unable to sell the bonds in market.

(d) Market risk

There are numerous factors affecting the market value of the bonds that investors may face, such as the level of interest rates, issuer and/or guarantor's credit quality, foreign exchange rates and liquidity.

(e) Exchange rate risk

The bonds may pay principal (in case of call) and interest in the denominated currency. This presents certain risks relating to the currency conversions if investors' financial activities are denominated principally in a currency or currency unit other than that of the bonds.

(f) Concentration risk

Investors are reminded of concentration in their investment, e.g. investment product, underlying, foreign exchange, etc.

(g) Taxation risk

Investors will assume and be solely responsible for any and all taxes of any jurisdiction or governmental or regulatory authority, including, without limitation, any state or local taxes or other like assessments or charges that may be applicable to any payment to it in respect of the bonds.

(h) Event risk

The investment is subject to event risks of the underlying, including but not limited to market disruption, settlement disruption, insolvency, delisting, nationalisation. The terms and conditions of the investment may be adjusted due to the occurrence of such or other events. The price of the underlying could move substantially on corporate specific news/developments.

(i) Emerging market risk

Where the issuers are based in developing or emerging markets, investment in the debenture may involve certain risks associated with political and economic uncertainty, adverse government policies, restrictions on foreign investment and currency convertibility, currency exchange rate fluctuations, possible lower levels of disclosure and regulation, and uncertainties as to the status, interpretation and application of laws, including those relating to private ownership of assets, expropriation, nationalisation and confiscation. There are some additional key risk factors for bonds/debentures containing the features and/or structures as follows:

(j) Subordinated risk

The bond holders may have a lower priority of claim than senior creditors in the event of the issuer's liquidation.

(k) Perpetual in nature

The bonds may have no maturity date and investors should not expect principal to be redeemed.

(l) Coupon deferral risk

Investors may face uncertainty over the amount and time of the interest payment to be received. Coupon payment may be varied, and/or deferred or suspended at the discretion of the issuer.

(m) Re-investment risk

The bonds may be callable at the discretion of the issuer and investors may face re-investment risk when the issuer exercises its right to redeem the bonds before they mature.

(n) Conversion risk

The bonds may be converted into stocks upon mandatory conversion or early exchange conversion. Investors will be subject to equity investment risk including the volatility of stock price after the conversion.

(o) Principal write down risk

Investors may lose some or all of their investments in case write down or loss absorption features are triggered.

(p) Loss absorption risk

Investors may face the risk of loss absorption, which could be caused by contractual mechanism on the occurrence of a trigger event or statutory mechanism.

(q) Vulnerability to economic cycles

During economic downturns high-yield bonds typically fall more in value than investment grade bonds as investors become more risk averse and default risk rises.

25 Commodity linked instruments

If you purchase a commodity option or other commodity linked instruments, you may sustain a total loss of the premium and of all Transactions costs.

If you purchase or sell a commodity option or other commodity linked instruments, you may sustain a total loss of the initial margin funds and any additional funds that you have deposited to establish or maintain your position, you may be called upon by deposit a substantial amount of additional margin funds, on short notice, in order to maintain your position. If you do not provide the requested funds within the prescribed time, your position may be liquidated at a loss, and you will be liable for any resulting deficit in your account.

Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This can occur, for example, when the market makes a "limit move."

The placement of contingent orders by you or your trading advisor, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" order, will not necessarily limit your losses to the intended amounts, since market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.

A "spread" position may not be less risky than a simple "long" or "short" position.

The high degree of leverage that is often obtainable in commodity trading can work against you as well as for you. The use of leverage can lead to large losses as well as gains.

In some cases, managed commodity accounts are subject to charges for management and advisory fees. It may be necessary for those accounts that are subject to these charges to make substantial trading profits to avoid depletion or exhaustion of their assets.

There is considerable risk involved in trading commodities options. This Statement cannot disclose all the risks and other significant aspects of the commodity markets. You should therefore carefully consider all the risks relating to commodity trading before you trade.

26 Credit linked products ("CLPs")

You understand that CLPs may carry a high degree of risk. You undertake to understand fully all the features associated with CLPs which include but are not limited to the credit events, reference obligations, settlement mechanics and deliverable obligations referred to in the documentation of the issuers of the CLPs (which contains the definitive terms of the CLPs) and any related documentation as may be provided by us before investing in CLPs.

You acknowledge that if you invest in CLPs, you are fully capable of assuming all risks generally associated with CLPs. These risks include and are not limited to the occurrence of a credit event, the issuer of the CLPs not fulfilling their obligations under the terms of the CLPs for any reason, or becoming insolvent. You further agree that we will not be liable to fulfil the obligations of the issuers of the CLPs.

You acknowledge that CLPs are generally not principal protected products and you may lose part or all of the amounts which you invest in the CLPs. You further acknowledge that CLPs may not be transferable and/or there may not be a secondary market for the CLPs; and that even if there is a secondary market, there can be no guarantee as regards the value of the CLPs in such a market.

You acknowledge that you will make your own independent decision whether to invest in CLPs and as to whether CLPs are appropriate for you based upon your own judgment and upon advice from your professional advisers. You will not be relying on any communication (written or oral) from us as investment advice or as a recommendation to invest in CLPs. It being understood that information and explanation related to the terms and conditions of the CLPs shall not be considered investment advice or a recommendation to invest in CLPs. No communication (written or oral) received from us shall be deemed to be an assurance or guarantee as to the expected results of the CLPs.

27 Loss Absorption Products

You should be aware that loss absorption products can come in different forms such as (a) debt instruments or (b) investment products that invest mainly in, or whose return are closely linked to the performance of such instruments (a "Loss Absorption Product", together, "Loss Absorption Products"). Loss Absorption Products are inherently complex and are of high risk.

In the case of a debt instrument, upon the occurrence of a certain triggering event, the relevant debt instrument may be (i) mandatorily converted into common equity of the issuer; or (ii) temporarily or permanently written down. The triggering events generally include (but are not limited to) the issuer failing to maintain a minimum capital ratio, a subjective determination by a regulator to trigger the conversion or write-down, and/or other circumstances adverse to the issuer. Since a triggering event will occur when the issuer's capital ratio and/or its chances of continuing as a going concern will have deteriorated, the triggering event will likely be accompanied by deterioration in the market value of its common equity. Therefore in the case of a mandatory conversion into common equity, you may receive shares that are likely to have a significantly diminished market value and therefore substantially less than the principal amount you invested. You may also be exposed to the associated liquidity risk of the common shares. The determination of a triggering event also involves inherent uncertainty and will be difficult to predict. The relevant trigger event(s) are set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant debt instrument. You should obtain the prospectus to the debt instrument from your relationship manager and pay extra attention to the particular features of the debt instrument including the trigger events, and implications of such trigger before you invest.

In the case of an investment product that invests mainly in, or whose return are closely linked to the performance of loss absorption products and a triggering event occurs in respect of one or more of the underlying assets, the market value of such investment product may deteriorate and you may incur a substantial loss to your initial investment. You should obtain a prospectus from your relationship manager and pay particular attention to the investment strategy and read the full risk disclosure to the relevant investment product.

You may wish to seek advice from an independent financial advisor before making a commitment to purchase a Loss Absorption Product. In the event that you choose not to seek advice from an independent financial adviser, you should carefully consider whether the product is suitable for you.

28 Risk of securities trading

The prices of securities fluctuate, sometimes dramatically. The price of a security may move up or down, and may become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling securities.

29 Risk of trading in leveraged foreign exchange contracts

The risk of loss in leveraged foreign exchange trading can be substantial. You may sustain losses in excess of your initial margin funds. Placing contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders, will not necessarily limit losses to the intended amounts.

Market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders. You may be called upon at short notice to deposit additional margin funds. If the required funds are not provided within the prescribed time, your position may be liquidated. You will remain liable for any resulting deficit in your account. You should therefore carefully consider whether such trading is suitable in light of your own financial position and investment objectives.

30 Derivative transactions

You should not enter into a Transaction which involves derivative instruments ("Derivative Transaction") unless you fully understand:

- (a) the nature and fundamentals of a derivative and the financial asset underlying such Derivative Transaction;
- (b) the legal terms and conditions of the documentation for such Derivative Transaction;
- (c) the extent of the economic risk to which you are exposed as a result of entering into such Derivative Transaction (and you have determined that such risk is suitable for you in light of your specific experience in relation to the specific Derivative Transaction and your financial objectives, circumstances and resources);
- (d) the tax treatment of such Derivative Transaction (which can be complex and/or uncertain); and
- (e) the regulatory treatment of such Derivative Transaction.

Where the Derivative Transaction is made up of several derivative instruments there are risks associated with each instrument evaluated separately as well as of the Derivative Transaction evaluated as a whole.

Because the prices and characteristics of most derivatives are individually negotiated and there is often no central source for obtaining prices from competing dealers, derivative pricing may be unclear and non-transparent. Further, in certain circumstances the normal pricing relationship between a derivative and its underlying product/market asset may be disrupted. We consequently do not warrant that its pricing will at any time be the best price available in the market to you. All prices quoted are merely indicative prices at which we are willing to trade with you unless you specifically ask for a "dealing price" which then will only be valid for a certain period of time. We may make a profit from a Derivative Transaction with you no matter what result such Derivative Transaction has on you. Your net returns from a Derivative Transaction would also be affected by Transaction costs (i.e. commissions, fees and other charges) charged by us.

You should however note that any indicative term sheet provided to you is not a comprehensive or conclusive list of all terms to which the Derivative Transaction is subject. It instead seeks to draw your attention to material terms only and you should obtain independent financial advice if you have any doubts and should not rely on us to advise you.

A derivative generally cannot be assigned or transferred without the consent of the other party. We may, but are not obligated to repurchase any derivative from you. It may therefore be impossible for you to liquidate any Derivative Transaction entered into by you prior to maturity. Because derivatives are usually customised and not fungible, engaging in a Derivative Transaction with another dealer to offset a Derivative Transaction entered into with us will not automatically close out those positions (as would be true in the case of equivalent exchange-traded futures and options) and will not necessarily function as a perfect hedge.

In respect of futures and options contracts traded on an exchange, there may be rules in certain jurisdiction which (i) prescribe limits on the number of future contracts or options contracts that may be held or controlled by any person and (ii) require a person holding or controlling a position in excess of a prescribed amount to notify the exchanges.

You acknowledge that it is your responsibility to observe these position limits and to make reports where applicable.

You should be aware that in other jurisdictions in which you may be trading exchange-traded derivatives may have position and reporting limits. You may therefore be required to monitor and report to the relevant regulators/exchanges your derivatives positions.

31 Pricing risks in relation to Over-the-Counter Transactions

The terms of an over-the-counter ("OTC") Transaction are individually negotiated and there may be no central source for obtaining prices. As such, there can be a lack of transparency in the pricing of such instruments and the terms of the OTC Transaction may not be the best terms available to you from other sources. As an OTC Transaction may only be assigned, transferred, terminated, modified or offset by mutual consent, it may be difficult or impossible for you to liquidate an existing position, to assess a fair value of the OTC Transaction or assess your risk of loss. Further, the normal pricing relationships between the underlying instruments and the financial instruments may not exist in certain circumstances, especially in "combined" or "structured" Transactions. The absence of a "common" or "market" reference price may make it difficult or impossible for the "fair value" of the OTC Transaction to be assessed independently.

You should not regard our provision of a mark-to-market valuation or price at your request as an offer to enter into or terminate the relevant OTC Transaction at that value or price, unless we have indicated it is firm or binding. You acknowledge and agree that our determination of such value or price in accordance with our normal practices from time to time shall be conclusive and binding. You further acknowledge and agree that you shall not have any access to and shall not query or require further particulars of the mode of calculation adopted by the Bank.

32 Risk of trading GEM stocks

GEM stocks involve a high investment risk. In particular, companies may list on GEM with neither a track record of profitability nor any obligation to forecast future profitability. GEM stocks may be very volatile and illiquid.

You should make the decision to invest only after due and careful consideration. The greater risk profile and other characteristics of GEM mean that it is a market more suited to professional and other sophisticated investors.

Current information on GEM stocks may only be found on the internet website operated by the SEHK. GEM Companies are usually not required to issue paid announcements in gazetted newspapers.

You should seek independent professional advice if you are uncertain of or have not understood any aspect of this Statement or the nature and risks involved in trading of GEM stocks.

33 Risk of providing an authority to repledge your securities collateral etc.

There is risk if you provide the licensed or registered person with an authority that allows it to apply your securities or securities collateral pursuant to a securities borrowing and lending agreement, repledge your securities collateral for financial accommodation or deposit your securities collateral as collateral for the discharge and satisfaction of its settlement obligations and liabilities.

If your securities or securities collateral are received or held by the licensed or registered person in Hong Kong, the above arrangement is allowed only if you consent in writing. Moreover, unless you are a professional investor as defined under the SFO, your authority must specify the period for which it is current and be limited to not more than 12 months. If you are a professional investor, these restrictions do not apply.

Additionally, your authority may be deemed to be renewed (i.e. without your written consent) if the licensed or registered person issues you a reminder at least fourteen (14) days prior to the expiry of the authority and you do not object to such deemed renewal before the expiry date of your then existing authority.

You are not required by any law to sign these authorities, but an authority may be required by licensed or registered persons, for example, to facilitate margin lending to you or to allow your securities or securities collateral to be lent to or deposited as collateral with third parties. The licensed or registered person should explain to you the purposes for which one of these authorities is to be used.

If you sign one of these authorities and your securities or securities collateral are lent to or deposited with third parties, those third parties will have a lien or charge on your securities or securities collateral.

Although the licensed or registered person is responsible to you for securities or securities collateral lent or deposited under your authority, a default by it could result in the loss of your securities or securities collateral.

A cash account not involving securities borrowing and lending is available from most licensed or registered persons. If you do not require margin facilities or do not wish your securities or securities collateral to be lent or pledged, do not sign the above authorities and ask to open this type of cash account.

34 Risk of margin trading

The risk of loss in financing a transaction by deposit of collateral is significant. You may sustain losses in excess of your cash and any other assets deposited as collateral with the licensed or registered person. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders. You may be called upon at short notice to make additional margin deposits or interest payments. If the required margin deposits or interest payments are not made within the prescribed time, your collateral may be liquidated without your consent. Moreover, you will remain liable for any resulting deficit in your account and interest charged on your account. You should therefore carefully consider whether such a financing arrangement is suitable in light of your own financial position and investment objectives.

35 Risk of trading Nasdaq-Amex securities at the SEHK

The securities under the Nasdaq-Amex Pilot Program ("PP") are aimed at sophisticated investors. You should consult the licensed or registered person and become familiarised with the PP before trading in the PP securities. You should be aware that the PP securities are not regulated as a primary or secondary listing on the Main Board or the GEM of the SEHK.

European Market Infrastructure Regulation (EMIR) Notice

New European derivatives regulation – for clients with our Hong Kong or Singapore Branch

This Notice sets out the terms of the additional agreement that will apply between us as a result of new European regulations for derivatives reform (known as EMIR).

This Notice addresses your classification under EMIR and the use of timely confirmations, portfolio reconciliation and dispute resolution required under EMIR for all derivatives products you obtain from or enter into with us (whether documented under the Deutsche Bank Master Agreement for Foreign Exchange Transactions and Derivatives Transactions, the ISDA Master Agreement, the Account Opening Documentation, the Service Agreement or any other agreement between you and us). From 1 July 2014 in the case of Deutsche Bank AG, Hong Kong Branch clients, and 31 July 2014 in the case of Deutsche Bank AG, Singapore Branch clients, we propose to enter into any derivatives products with you on the terms below.

We may amend these terms from time to time by thirty (30) days' prior notice to you or, to the extent necessary to comply with Applicable Regulation or where we are required to do so by any regulator, we may amend these terms with immediate effect and without notice.

In this Notice, where we refer to a "derivative product" or "derivative transaction", this includes any transaction, instrument or other arrangement which falls within the definition of "derivative" under EMIR, including many forms of options, futures and swaps. Some or all of the structured products you obtain from us may be "derivatives" under EMIR (for example, dual currency investments, accumulators, decumulators, options, swaps, among others). Where we refer to "uncleared" derivative products, this means derivative products which are not cleared by a central counterparty and "OTC" refers to over-the-counter, non-exchange-traded derivative products.

Other terms used in this Notice that have a particular meaning in EMIR shall have the same meaning in this Notice.

1 Classification under EMIR

Deutsche Bank A.G., as an EU credit institution, is directly subject to various requirements under EMIR worldwide as a financial counterparty (as defined below). EMIR requires us to take different steps and a different treatment for our derivative products and derivative transactions with you depending on your status. To ensure we are taking the correct action, we need you to confirm that you qualify as a counterparty in respect of whom a less restrictive regime applies under EMIR.

You therefore now represent and warrant to us that, as of the date you agree or are deemed to agree to the terms of this Notice, (a) you are not or would not be

(if hypothetically established in the European Union) a financial counterparty (FC) as defined in Article 2(8) of EMIR; and (b) you are or would be (if hypothetically established in the European Union) a non-financial counterparty (NFC-) which is not subject to the clearing obligation under Article 10 of EMIR. You are deemed to repeat the above representation and warranty each time you obtain a derivative product or enter into a derivative transaction from or with us and at all times while that product or transaction remains outstanding. You agree that you will inform us immediately in writing if this representation and warranty ceases to be true.

We set out below a brief summary of the relevant definitions of "financial counterparty" and "non-financial counterparty":

A "financial counterparty" is an entity which is authorised under one of the EU Directives listed in Article 2 of EMIR (for example, a credit institution, insurance undertaking, an investment manager authorised under the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive or a fund managed by a manager authorised under the Alternative Investment Fund Managers Directive).

A "non-financial counterparty which is not subject to the clearing obligation under EMIR" is an undertaking established in the EU which is not a financial counterparty or a central counterparty and which holds positions over 30 working days in derivatives products below of any one of the following thresholds:

- EUR 1 billion in gross notional value for OTC credit derivatives contracts;
- EUR 1 billion in gross notional value for OTC equity derivatives contracts;
- EUR 3 billion in gross notional value for OTC interest rate derivative contracts;
- EUR 3 billion in gross notional value for OTC foreign exchange derivatives contracts;
- EUR 4 billion in gross notional value for OTC commodity derivatives contracts and other OTC derivatives contracts not provided for above.

Please note that the thresholds above are subject to periodic review by competent authorities. As such, please refer to EMIR and the relevant delegated regulations for detailed definitions, and seek professional legal advice should you require further guidance on the above or any other regulatory requirements that are coming into force.

2 Timely confirmations

EMIR requires us both to have agreed to confirm our OTC derivative products and OTC derivative transactions by certain confirmation deadlines (shown in Schedule 1 of this Notice). Therefore, where we provide or enter into any uncleared OTC derivative product or transaction to or with you on or after 1

July 2014 in the case of Deutsche Bank AG, Hong Kong Branch clients, and 31 July 2014 in the case of Deutsche Bank AG, Singapore Branch clients:

- (a) we will send you a confirmation setting out or incorporating by reference or otherwise all the terms of the contract as soon as reasonably practicable before the relevant confirmation deadline;
- (b) you must notify us, as soon as possible and in any event by the relevant confirmation deadline, if you do not agree to the confirmation, setting out the reasons for your disagreement; and
- (c) you will be deemed to have agreed to the confirmation if we have not received notification of your disagreement by the relevant confirmation deadline.

3 Portfolio reconciliation and dispute resolution

EMIR requires us to agree procedures with you for portfolio reconciliation and dispute resolution regarding our OTC derivative products and OTC derivative transactions with you. We are therefore changing the terms of our OTC derivative products and OTC derivative transactions with you to include those terms shown in Schedule 2 and Schedule 3 of this Notice.

4 Consent to disclosure

EMIR requires us to report your derivative products and derivative transactions (and any related information) to a trade repository or the European Securities Markets Authority, the national competent authority of any member state of the European Economic Area or the equivalent authority of a state or territory that is not a member state of the European Economic Area. You acknowledge and consent to this and agree to the terms set out in Schedule 4 of this Notice.

5 Miscellaneous

The terms of this Notice cover all derivative products or derivative transactions obtained or entered into by you with us as principal and form part of the agreement between you and us. If this Notice conflicts with any agreement between you and us, this Notice shall prevail. If you have adhered to or will adhere any industry protocol on any subject matter referred to in this Notice (including any protocol prohibited by the International Swaps and Derivatives Association), this Notice shall prevail over that protocol with respect to that subject matter. If you have executed a Deutsche Bank Master Agreement for Foreign Exchange Transactions and Derivatives Transactions with us, then that agreement and the terms of this Notice shall cover any trading related transactions with us going forward, regardless of any other trading agreement you may have executed with us.

We may send any communications to you referred to in this Notice to any address you have provided to us and you will ensure that at all times we have a current address we may use to communicate with you for the purpose of this Notice. Any communications to be sent by you to us under this Notice shall be addressed and sent as we may from time to time specify to you by notice in writing.

These terms will continue to apply until terminated by either of us by not less than one month's notice in writing to the other person. Unless otherwise specified by us by notice to you, these terms shall continue to apply to all derivative products and derivative transactions outstanding between us as at the date of termination and termination shall not in any event affect the provisions of paragraph 4 and 5 or any of both our accrued rights or liabilities.

Without prejudice to the rights, powers, remedies and privileges provided by law, failure by either of us to take any actions required by or to otherwise comply with Schedule 2 or Schedule 3 or any inaccuracy of the representation and warranty in Schedule 4, in either case, will not constitute an event of default or any other event which permits either of us to terminate any derivative products or derivative transaction between you and us.

This Notice and any non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with it are governed by English law and the courts of England and Wales have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute arising from or connected with this Notice.

Portfolio reconciliation

From time to time we will notify you of a schedule of dates as of which we will carry out portfolio reconciliation for the uncleared derivative products and derivative transactions outstanding between you and us. We will endeavour to make sure that there is at least one portfolio reconciliation date per year or more frequently if we consider it necessary in order for us to comply with EMIR.

We will endeavour to send you the key data regarding your portfolio of uncleared derivative products and derivative transactions outstanding between us on each portfolio reconciliation date no later than the fifth Hong Kong or Singapore business day (as the case may be) after that date. In accordance with EMIR, this data will identify each of your derivative products and derivative transactions and include, amongst other data, the valuation we determine for each of your derivative products and derivative transactions with us.

When you receive this portfolio data, you must compare it against your records to identify promptly any discrepancies.

If you identify one or more discrepancies which you consider, acting reasonably and in good faith, are material to your rights and obligations, you must notify us in writing as soon as reasonably practicable. We will then both consult with each other in good faith to resolve the discrepancies in a timely fashion for so long as these discrepancies remain outstanding.

If you do not notify us of any discrepancies by 16:00 Hong Kong/Singapore time on the fifth Hong Kong or Singapore business day (as the case may be) following the date on which we sent the portfolio data, you will be deemed to have accepted the data.

We may delegate our responsibility to reconcile portfolio data to any third party who we may choose at our sole discretion.

Schedule 3 Dispute resolution

You agree to the following procedure to identify and resolve any dispute regarding the existence, validity, termination or valuation of any derivative product or derivative transaction between us both or in relation to any exchange of collateral in relation to that product or transaction:

- (a) Either of us may identify a dispute by sending a notice promptly to the other;
- (b) On and following the date this notice is sent, we both will consult with each other in good faith to resolve the dispute in a timely manner including, without limitation, by exchanging any relevant information, identifying and using any other process we have agreed to resolve a dispute or, if no other process exists or we both agree that the other process would be unsuitable, determining and applying a way to resolve the dispute; and
- (c) For any dispute that is not resolved within five Hong Kong or Singapore business days (as the case may be), we both will escalate the matter to appropriately senior members of staff (or equivalent) in addition to the steps we both have taken under paragraph b. above.

You shall have internal procedures and processes in place to record and monitor any dispute for as long as that dispute remains outstanding.

The terms in this Notice and any action or inaction of either party in respect of them are without prejudice to any rights or obligations the parties may possess in respect of each other under any other agreed dispute resolution process or other contractual agreement, by operation of law or otherwise.

Action or inaction by a party in respect of these conditions will not be presumed to operate as an exercise or waiver, in whole or part, of any right, power or privilege such party may possess in respect of each other under any other agreed dispute resolution process or other contractual agreement, by operation of law or otherwise. In particular, but without limitation, (i) any valuation in respect of one or more derivative products or derivative transactions for the purposes of these terms will be without prejudice to any other valuation with respect to those derivative products or derivative transactions made for collateral, close-out, dispute or other purposes; (ii) the parties may seek to identify and resolve issues and discrepancies between themselves before either party delivers notice of a dispute; and (iii) nothing in these terms obliges a party to deliver notice of a dispute following the identification of any such issue or discrepancy (notwithstanding that such issue or discrepancy may remain unresolved) or limits the rights of the parties to serve notice of a dispute or otherwise to pursue any dispute resolution process in respect of any such issue or discrepancy.

Schedule 4

Consent to disclosure

You waive any rights you may have to confidential treatment of the information provided by you under applicable law or under any other agreement between you and us to enable us or any third party service provider to make reports or provide information to a trade repository, the European Securities Markets Authority, the national competent authority of any member state of the European Economic Area or the equivalent authority of a state or territory that is not a member state of the European Economic Area, the SFC, the HKMA, the MAS or any other regulator or governmental body or authority as we consider necessary or desirable to comply with any rule, treaty, regulation or law applicable to our head office, any of our branches or affiliates relating to any of your derivative products or derivative transactions.

You consent to the disclosure of information relating to any derivative products or derivative transactions obtained or entered into by you with us to our head office, branches or affiliates, or any persons or entities who provide services to us, its head office, branches or affiliates in connection with making the reports or providing the information referred to above.

You acknowledge that pursuant to global regulatory reform initiatives, regulators require reporting of trade data to increase market transparency and enable regulators to monitor systemic risk to ensure safeguards are implemented globally.

You acknowledge that we are required by Applicable Regulations:

- (i) to provide to relevant regulatory agencies, authorities or exchanges or providers of reporting or publication services information about transactions executed with or for you (or, where applicable, your principal or principals), including relevant information about you, your principal or principals, and your employees;
- (ii) to make public relevant details of transactions executed with or for you;
- (iii) to make public the aggregate positions for different commodity derivatives, emission allowances or derivatives thereof traded on a trading venue; and
- (iv) to provide to regulators with a complete breakdown of the positions in commodity derivatives, emission allowances or derivatives thereof traded on a trading venue held by all persons.

You consent to us providing or making public such information or details in accordance with Applicable Regulations.

You acknowledge that disclosures made under these conditions may include, without limitation, the disclosure of trade information including a party's identity (by name, address, corporate affiliation, identifier or otherwise) to any trade repository or one or more systems or services operated by any trade repository and any regulators and that such disclosures could result in certain anonymous transaction and pricing data becoming available to the public.

You further acknowledge that, for the purposes of complying with regulatory reporting obligations, we may use a third party service provider to transfer trade information into a trade repository and that a trade repository may engage the services of a global trade repository regulated by one or more governmental regulators.

You also acknowledge that disclosures made under these terms may be made to recipients in jurisdictions other than our jurisdiction or a jurisdiction that may not necessarily provide an equivalent or adequate level of protection for personal or other data as your home jurisdiction.

For the avoidance of doubt, (i) to the extent that applicable non-disclosure, confidentiality, bank secrecy, data privacy or other law imposes non-disclosure requirements on transaction and similar information required or permitted to be disclosed as contemplated herein but permits a party to waive such requirements by consent, the consent and acknowledgements provided in this Notice shall be a consent by each party for the purposes of that law; (ii) any agreement between the parties to maintain confidentiality of information in relation to derivative products or derivative transactions or in any non-disclosure, confidentiality or other agreement shall continue to apply to the extent that such agreement is not inconsistent with the disclosure of information as set out herein; and (iii) nothing in this Notice is intended to limit the scope of any other consent to disclosure separately given by you to us.

You represent and warrant that any third party to whom you owe a duty of confidence in respect of the information disclosed has consented to the disclosure of that information.

Annex 6

1 Protection of deposits

We are granted exemption (the "Exemption") from participating as a member of the DPS under the DPS Ordinance, subject to certain conditions imposed by the Hong Kong Deposit Protection Board. As we are only a wholesale bank in Singapore and not a full bank, we are not required to be a member of the Deposit Insurance Scheme under the Deposit Insurance and Policy Owners' Protection Schemes Act 2011 of Singapore. In accordance with section 13(10) of the DPS Ordinance and in order that you are made aware of the Exemption and our status in Singapore, we would like to inform you of the following:

- (a) We are not members of the DPS and any deposits placed with us will not, to any extent, be protected by the DPS. Neither are we members of the Deposit Insurance Scheme of Singapore.
- (b) Deposits with Deutsche Bank AG are covered by the statutory German protection scheme, Entschädigungseinrichtung deutscher Banken GmbH ("EdB"), which is the German private commercial bank's statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme for depositors and investors. The German Deposit Guarantee Act (Einlagensicherungsgesetz) protects deposits and (in conjunction with the German Investor Protection Act–Anlegerentschädigungsgesetz) certain liabilities arising from securities transactions at certain credit institutions to the extent provided for under this Act by the EdB, Burgstraße 28, 10178 Berlin, Germany, www.edb-banken.de. Private individuals as well as partnerships and corporations are entitled to compensation. Deposits of banks and institutional investors, such as financial institutions and investment firms, insurance undertakings and deposits of public authorities are not covered. The EdB protects deposits up to a limit of €100,000 and 90% of liabilities arising from investment business, limited to the equivalent of €20,000. Liabilities in respect of which a bank has issued bearer instruments such as bearer bonds and bearer deposit certificates are not protected. Compensation is provided in connection with investment business particularly if, contrary to its duties, a bank is unable to return monies owed to a customer in connection with securities transactions and financial instruments owned by the customer and held in custody on its behalf.

- (c) No financial information about the statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme is publicly available.

2 Other important information

- (a) We set out in the attached Depositor Information Sheet details about the statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme, pursuant to Section 23a (1) of the German Banking Act (Kreditwesengesetz, KWG).
- (b) In general, all retail depositors and businesses are covered by the statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme. Exceptions for certain deposits are stated on the website of the statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme. We will also inform you on request whether certain products are covered or not. Additional information

1. Your deposits are covered by the statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme. If insolvency of your credit institution should occur, your deposits would in any case be repaid up to EUR 100 000.
2. If a deposit is unavailable because a credit institution is unable to meet its financial obligations, depositors are repaid by the statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme. This repayment covers up to a maximum of EUR 100 000 per credit institution. This means that all deposits at the same credit institution are added up in order to determine the coverage level. If, for instance, a depositor holds a savings account with EUR 90 000 and a current account with EUR 20 000, he or she will only be repaid EUR 100 000.

This method will also be applied if a credit institution operates under different trademarks. Deutsche Bank AG also trades under the name Deutsche Bank Wealth Management. This means that all deposits with one or more of these trademarks are in total covered up to EUR 100 000.

3. In case of joint accounts, the limit of EUR 100 000 applies to each depositor.

Deposits in an account to which two or more persons are entitled as members of a business partnership, association or grouping of a similar nature, without legal personality, are aggregated and treated as if made by a single depositor for the purpose of calculating the limit of EUR 100 000.

In the cases listed in Section 8(2) to (4) of the German Deposit Guarantee Act (Einlagensicherungsgesetz), deposits are protected above EUR 100 000. More information can be obtained from www.edb-banken.de.

Common Reporting Standard Communications

1 Introduction

The Common Reporting Standard (“CRS”) is a recent initiative undertaken by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (“OECD”) in an effort to combat tax evasion. Currently over 100 countries have agreed to implement the CRS by entering into either a bilateral or a multilateral agreement with other jurisdictions. Additional countries are expected to join.

Under the CRS, participating countries are required to automatically exchange, on an annual basis, information on the financial holdings of tax residents of participating countries. The goal of this exchange is to provide countries with information about the offshore activity of their tax residents, and to ensure that tax is collected where required. Countries that have committed to exchange information in 2017, are considered “early adopter” countries. Early adopters include most of the European countries, such as the U.K., Germany and the Netherlands. Other “early adopter” countries include India, Cayman Islands, Guernsey and Jersey. The second wave of CRS implementation would include countries like Singapore, Hong Kong, China, Australia and Japan.

2 CRS at a Glance

The CRS introduces new tax reporting and due diligence review requirements. Under the CRS, information is automatically exchanged between the tax authorities of participating countries. To effect this exchange, financial institutions in participating countries, are required to report financial account information, to their local tax authorities. The local tax authority will exchange this information with the tax authorities in other participating countries with whom it signs a Competent Authority Agreement (“CAA”).

If the Deutsche Bank entity with which you have an account is located in a participating country, then that entity must review its financial accounts and report those that are held, directly or indirectly, by reportable account holders. This reporting is required with respect to equity interests and shareholdings in fund vehicles and investment entities as well as other types of financial accounts such as depository and custodial accounts.

To identify reportable account holders, Deutsche Bank must first determine the country(ies) in which the account holder is tax resident. Generally, the account holder will be a tax resident in the country(ies) where it is liable to pay income or corporate taxes. However, local law of that country may consider other criteria in determining tax residence.

After determining where an account holder is a tax resident, Deutsche Bank entities in the participating jurisdictions must determine if the account holder is reportable. Generally, if the account holder is a tax resident in a participating jurisdiction that is different from the participating jurisdiction where the account is held, then Deutsche Bank may be required to report the financial account information to the local tax authority which will forward the information to the country(ies) in which the account holder is tax resident. For example, if an account holder is tax resident in China, and is a portfolio management customer of Deutsche Bank in Singapore, then Deutsche Bank Singapore may be required to report the account holder to the Singapore local tax authority (IRAS) which will forward the information to the China tax authorities, subject to the CAA between Singapore and China. The information to be reported includes, name of the account holder(s), account balances, income and, for custodial accounts, gross proceeds from the disposal of assets. Account closures must also be reported.

3 Examples of Reportable Information:

About the account holder	About the asset	Income/gains/movements:
Full Name	Name of the financial institution and its identifying number	Gross interest received
Address	Type of asset (financial accounts/ products as well as interests in trusts/ holding entities)	Dividends received
Date of Birth (*Individuals only)	Local account number/identifier	Any other income derived from financial assets
Place of Birth (*Individuals only)	End of the year balance for cash deposits	Gross sale proceeds received into accounts
Tax Identification Number	Cash value for other assets	Amounts paid on account closures

4 CRS Timelines

Early adopter countries are required to have procedures in place to record the tax residence of new clients by January 1, 2016. For early adopter countries the CRS requirements to collect tax information from new clients becomes effective from January 1, 2016, with first reporting to the local authority in 2017.

The requirement for collection of tax information for the second wave countries (like Singapore and Hong Kong) will be effective from January 1, 2017, for new accounts and first reporting due in 2018.

- (iv) Derivatives (OTC or exchange-traded); and
- (v) Structured products.

Collective investment schemes (including but not limited to mutual funds, hedge funds, investment funds, alternative investment funds, private equity funds of the Bank or any third-party providers) are generally out of scope for Best Execution due to the unique nature of the product.

Execution Factors

Under the Policy, we take into account a range of factors when executing your order ("execution factors") and these factors may include:

- (i) price of the product;
- (ii) cost relating to the execution;
- (iii) speed and likelihood of execution;
- (iv) speed and likelihood of settlement;
- (v) nature and size of the order; and
- (vi) any other consideration relevant to the execution of a particular order.

In determining the relative importance and/or applicability of the execution factors, we also take into account the following considerations:

- (i) the characteristics of the financial instrument that is the subject of the particular order;
- (ii) the characteristics of the particular order made by you; and
- (iii) the characteristics of the execution venues or brokers to which the particular order may be directed.

Generally, we consider that the most important execution factor is the price at which the order is placed or executed. However, there may be circumstances where price is not the dominant execution factor. When considering each execution factor, we will use our experience and expertise to take reasonable steps to balance and weigh these quantitative and qualitative execution factors with a view to providing you with the best possible results on a consistent basis.

Order Handling

When placing and executing your orders, our objective is to carry out comparable orders sequentially and promptly unless the characteristics of the order or prevailing market conditions make this impracticable, or your best interests require otherwise. Orders will not be treated as comparable if they are received by different channels and it is not practicable for them to be treated sequentially.

For transactions involving initial public offering of equities, new issues of bonds and the subscription and redemption of funds, due to the characteristics of these markets, we have limited discretion in defining the parameters of execution of these orders. As such, we need only ensure that your orders have been placed in a timely manner with the corresponding counterparty.

Specific Instructions

Where specific instructions are given by you regarding the execution of your order ("Specific Instructions"), we will take such steps as is reasonably possible to meet our Best Execution obligations to execute your order in accordance with those Specific Instructions, subject to our legal and regulatory obligations, and we shall be considered to have satisfied our Best Execution obligations in respect of your order when it has been executed according to your Specific Instructions.

In respect of any Specific Instructions covering only one or certain aspects of your order, we will still apply our standard best execution principles to meet our Best Execution obligations in respect of the other aspects of your order that are not covered by your Specific Instructions.

Use of Counterparties

We select and monitor a panel of counterparties that enable us to provide best execution of orders. We may assign the execution of orders to affiliated or non-affiliated counterparties. When selecting counterparties to execute your orders, consideration is given to quantitative and qualitative factors such as their accessibility to the relevant market, connectivity to the relevant execution venue, service level, experience in the relevant market, ability to give up and clear trades and historical execution performance.

In the event that we rely on counterparties to execute your orders, we will place reliance on the counterparties to execute your orders and they will then be responsible for achieving Best Execution. This includes orders placed via algorithmic trading.

Execution Venues

In selecting an appropriate execution venue to execute your orders, we will consider the functional and economic merits such as the liquidity, suitability, and settlement infrastructure of each potential execution venue.

In the event that there may be only one possible execution venue, we will execute your order on the sole execution venue and this will be regarded as having achieved Best Execution in respect of the execution factors pertaining to the selection of the execution venue.

Transactions through Single Counterparty

We may execute your order by transacting with or through a single counterparty in the following circumstances:

- (i) when the financial instrument which is the subject of an order is bespoke or a proprietary idea, has inadequate market liquidity and/or the trade size and/or the execution instructions would not be considered standard for the subject exchange or the OTC market and as a result, multiple quotes or multiple counterparties may be unavailable for these financial instruments. In such a situation, we will consider the relevant execution factors and may decide to execute your order by transacting with or through a single counterparty. This single counterparty could be a DB affiliate or an external counterparty.
- (ii) For certain financial instruments, including but not limited to Foreign Exchange, Interest Rate Swaps, Commodity Index swaps and Fund-Linked swaps transactions, we may be unable to source quotes from multiple counterparties for various reasons, which may include our infrastructural setup or funding cost. In such circumstances, we will transact through a single counterparty, which could be a DB affiliate. For some of these financial instruments, we will monitor the price quality of the single counterparty on a best effort basis but will otherwise place reliance on such single counterparty to achieve Best Execution.

Review and Monitoring

As part of the Policy, we will review and monitor the effectiveness of our current Policy, and process and assess whether we have provided the best possible outcome for orders executed on your behalf on a consistent basis. The effectiveness of the Policy is reviewed periodically and may be updated from time to time in order to ensure that we achieve the best possible outcome for you in the placement and execution of your orders.

Whilst we will take steps to ensure that the best possible results are achieved for your orders on a consistent basis, there is no guarantee that on every occasion we will achieve the best possible result for your orders.

In addition, where systems fail, or for other reasons beyond our control, we may execute orders or transactions in a manner which differs from our normal practice. In such situations, we will endeavour to perform our Best Execution obligation to the best of our ability, having regard to all of the circumstances. Our commitment under this Policy shall not be construed in any way to amount to an obligation to you under any transaction, and our failure to comply with the Policy shall not entitle you to cancel, terminate or rescind any transaction.
